

Ohio House Slates Election Bill Vote Next Week

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Fearful of a Republican end run, majority Democrats plan a House vote next Wednesday on their version of voter reform, a bill that would permit Ohioans to register on election day.

The way was cleared by an 8-4 favorable vote Thursday on the controversial bill in the House Elections Committee, with all four Republican members dissenting.

To the Republicans, the Democratic election reform bill is better described as "instant registration," or in the words of Rep. Robert E. Netzel, R-81 Laura, "a blueprint for fraud."

Cognizant that their chances of stopping the bill in the legislature are slim, GOP forces are considering placing the issue on the statewide ballot, as a referendum to repeal the legislation.

In the Senate, a separate bill to assure that election board records are kept open for public inspection during regular business hours was approved 27-0 and sent to Gov. James A. Rhodes. The Senate has already approved the registration bill.

GOP's Energy Plan Relies On Incentive

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans, rejecting all new tax proposals contained in President Carter's energy program, are offering a rival plan aimed at "incentives rather than punishment."

The energy proposal, adopted without dissent by Senate GOP members on Thursday, calls for removal of price controls on oil and natural gas and tax breaks for Americans who conserve energy in their homes and businesses.

It calls for some of the same energy conservation measures advocated by House Democrats want to complete action on the latter bill without delay to clear the decks for the all-important 1978 gubernatorial election, when they expect to reap the benefits of a big turnout.

"If there is a referendum, I will look at it with pleasure," the sponsor of the bill, Sen. Tony P. Hall, D-6 Dayton said. "I can sell this bill and I'll go all over the state to do it." Hall knows too that he can count on heavy financial support from the AFL-CIO and other labor unions backing his bill.

More than 20 amendments were tacked onto the bill that will go before the 99-member House next week.

In its present form, Ohio voters could register up to 21 days before an election—that was increased from 15, but is more lenient than the present 30 day limit—or on election day itself, simply by presenting valid identification.

The voter would then receive a stub showing that he has enrolled and his name would be posted in the polling place. Both of these provisions were added as safeguards against fraud.

The President, but none of the taxes. Senate Republican Leader Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., said elements of the GOP counter-offensive to Carter's energy package will be introduced in the Senate piece by piece in the coming days.

If the 38 GOP members of the Senate stand solidly behind the plan—as Republican leaders say they will—it could pose a major obstacle to enactment of some of the more controversial elements of the administration's energy program.

"We do not have a tax on gas-guzzlers and we specifically reject a standby tax on gasoline," said Sen. John Tower, R-Texas. "Our provisions are positive, incentives rather than punishment."

Carter asked for authority to impose a gasoline tax of up to 50 cents a gallon if gasoline consumption continues to rise rapidly, and for a tax of up to $2,500 on fuel-inefficient automobiles.

But Senate Republicans rejected the President's proposal for taxes on domestic oil production and on utilities that continue to use oil and natural gas.

The GOP plan for deregulation would allow domestic oil and gas prices to rise to worldmarket levels.

Deregulation has been a goal of the U.S. energy industry and members of Congress from oil and gas-producing states, who claim the current federal controls keep prices artificially low and discourage exploration for new reserves.

Good Business Growth Seen Well Into 1978

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — The nation's economy, with growing strength in its investment sector, is on a "sound growth path" that should continue well into 1978, economic consultants to the Business Council predicted today.

In a fairly optimistic forecast, the group said the biggest problem areas for 1977 were the possibility of another spurt in inflation and potentially negative effects of President Carter's energy program on consumer and business confidence.

About 100 members of the Business Council, composed of the chairmen and officials of some of the nation's largest and most influential corporations, opened their spring meeting here Thursday night.

"The only way the economy is going to keep its upward trend is to keep capital goods moving," council members said.

The council forecast also expected that the real gross national product would grow 4.9 per cent this year and 4.4 per cent in the first half of 1978.

Unemployment, now at 7 per cent, would continue to decline, approaching 6.5 per cent by mid-1978, according to the forecast.

The council looked for consumer prices to rise 5.9 per cent this year — about the same as last year — but said that in the first half of 1978 inflation should go down.

The outlook for the business community was for an 11 per cent increase in corporate profits.

It also predicted an 11.8 per cent rise in current dollar outlays for non-residential fixed investment.

During an informal press briefing Thursday night, the business leaders offered to do everything they can to help the Carter administration, but they said they are worried about President Carter's "on again off again" policies toward business.

"We worry there are no positive signs he is going to back the business community," council members said in remarks that were on the record but not for attribution.

The group said it was a good sign when the President dropped his plans for a $50-per-person tax rebate, but they did not like the elimination of business investment tax credits.

And they were unhappy about proposed changes in the Social Security program that would put a greater financial burden on employers.

"These are the things that cause uncertainty — uncertainty is the biggest enemy of business. They make business stop and think before making big capital investments," council members said.

"Now we want a strong signal from the administration of its concern" about business and the need for reform of corporate tax laws, they said.

Despite their concern with Carter's policies, the business leaders offered as a group to help the administration by advising and consultation.

The group was most concerned about the need for a tax revision package, saying the administration "must lower the tax burden on the productive sector of the economy."

However, in a news conference Thursday, Carter said his aides are working on "a well-balanced" tax system that won't favor the business community.

He said it would be "erroneous" to assume that major tax reductions "would fall to the business community."

The business leaders did not comment on Carter's remarks.

The corporate executives urged

Congress to propose a tax package that would include changes in the taxing of dividends, lowering corporate tax rates and revising business replacement allowances that now are based on original costs of equipment rather than on replacement costs.

The Business Council, led this year by John D. deButts, chairman of American Telephone & Telegraph Co., was formed in 1933 to foster a better relationship between business interests and government.

William Batten, chairman of the New York Stock Exchange, and George F. Kennan, former U.S. ambassador to the Soviet Union, were scheduled to address the Council today, and Secretary of Commerce Juanita Kreps and Sen. Russell Long chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, are scheduled to speak Saturday.

Erin Fleming In New Bid For Groucho

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Erin Fleming, seen by some witnesses as an ill-tempered menace to Groucho Marx and by others as the joy of his waning years, is resuming her legal bid for permanent control over the comedian and his property.

Opposing her is Groucho's son, Arthur, who succeeded last month in having Miss Fleming removed as temporary guardian after alleging she was a threat to the 86-year-old Marx' life.

Miss Fleming, 37, who has served as secretary, manager, producer and companion to Marx for seven years, has hired a new firm of lawyers for the court battle which resumes at a hearing today.

Groucho, in failing health and frequently confused, remains confined to his Trousdale Estates home. J. Brin Schulman, attorney for Arthur Marx, said Groucho apparently is unaware that intimate details of his treatment by Miss Fleming — which allegedly involved verbal and physical abuse and improper drugging — have been bared in court.

At the end of a week-long hearing that ended April 22, Superior Court Judge Edward Rafeedie suspended Miss Fleming and appointed Nat Perrin, 72, a screenwriter and old friend of Marx, to care for the comedian and his multimillion dollar estate for the time being.

Under the judge's order, Miss Fleming was to visit Marx only as Perrin saw fit.

The third annual Tarleton Firemen's Fun Festival got under way Thursday with the selection of the queens to reign over the event.

Little Miss Tarleton is Angela Pennington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Pennington, Route 4, Circleville. The 6-year-old little Miss is a kindergarten student at McDowell school.

Attendants for the 1977 Miss Tarleton are Stephanie Summers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Summers, 26738 Jackson Road, a sophomore at Logan Elm, and Kim Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Brown, 25993 Shoemaker Road, a freshman at Logan Elm.

Rounding out the little miss court are Talisa Derr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rodger Derr, a 6-year-old kindergarten student at Stoutsville, and Sherry Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Walker, Amanda, a first grade student at Stoutsville.

The annual firemen's fun festival is sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary of the volunteer fire department.

Tonight's activities will be highlighted by a talent contest. All entrants must be amateurs. A square dance will be held following the talent contest with The Kustoms providing the music.

Saturday at 10 a.m. the baked goods contest is scheduled. First place winning entries in all categories will be auctioned during the evening.

All other entries will be sold at the country store during the day. The country store is an added attraction this year with all items handmade.

The final event of the festival will be the grand parade 6 p.m. Saturday with Earl Green of WTVN news staff serving as parade marshal.

A square dance will cap the events. The band will be Southern Comfort.

China Sees Soviet-U.S. War Soon

TOKYO (AP) — Chinese Defense Minister Yeh Chien-ying predicts a "big war" soon between the United States and the Soviet Union and says China "must race against time" to build up industry in the interior before it happens.

In a speech in Peking on May 9 to a nationwide industrial conference, Yeh said the United States and the Soviet Union "are locked in an increasingly fierce struggle for hegemony" and "a war will break out some day."

"We must be clearly aware of this situation," Yeh continued, "keep war in mind and get prepared for it, for a big war that will break out at an early date."

"We must race against time and work as quickly as possible so that we can build industry in the interior well before the outbreak of war."

Party Chairman Hua Kuofeng echoed Yeh, saying, "We must definitely be ready for war. We cannot afford to let time slip through our fingers as it waits for no one. Accelerating development of our national economy at a rapid pace is a task which brooks no delay."

Nixon Says He Himself Controlled Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A relaxed Richard Nixon, casting himself as coolly in charge of his own foreign policy, says he initiated overtures to China, faced the Russians down in the 1973 Middle East war and rescued Egyptian President Anwar Sadat from "a coup or worse."

In a taped interview with British television personality David Frost, Nixon said he had to overcome the reservations of Henry Kissinger to maintain U.S. military operations in Cambodia in 1970, despite demonstrations at Kent State and other universities.

And, again over Kissinger's warnings of possible political and diplomatic implications, Nixon said he ordered the Pentagon to "send everything that flies" to Israel to help the Jewish state snap back from the 1973 Yom Kippur attack by Egypt and Syria.

Thursday night's telecast over an informal network of 155 television stations was the second of five programs expected to bring Nixon approximately $1 million.

Nixon appeared as confident discussing world affairs in Thursday's taped interview as he had appeared uneasy in dealing with his Watergate downfall in last week's telecast.

Nixon, the only man to resign the presidency, assessed the world leaders he met while president and called Kissinger, who became both secretary of state and national security chief, "a genius" who had to have things his way.

Of the world leaders he met, Nixon said:

—The late Chairman Mao Tse-tung of China had "a devilish sense of humor" and lived very simply. Despite debilitating strokes he maintained control over China until his death last year.

—The late Soviet leader Nikita Khrushchev was both brilliant and boorish, with "a terrible inferiority complex."

—Khrushchev's successor, Leonid I.

Brezhnev, is not as quick intellectually, but also is not as volatile "and in that way a much safer man to have sitting there with his finger on the (nuclear) button."

Nixon called Kissinger an emotional intellectual who "likes to say outrageous things." He said Kissinger, who likes being a celebrity, constantly feuded with William P. Rogers before succeeding him as secretary of state.

After the Watergate scandal forced Nixon's resignation, Kissinger was sometimes critical of his old boss. In a dinner conversation in Ottawa, Canada, in October 1975, for instance, he was overheard describing Nixon as an odd and artificial man.

"Quite candidly," Nixon said, "it drives my family right up the wall and it's only because it bothers them, that it would bother me at all."

Besides, he went on, "after such accounts appear, I know that I always get a call from Henry on the phone explaining that there's been either a misquotation, or misinterpretation, or

Indian Canoes Surge In Popularity

MILWAUKEE (AP) — They're made of Diolen, epoxy laminate, Mithril, Martex, polyvinyl chloride, polyethylene, Royalex, Oltonar, nylon, Kevlar and carbon fiber.

You can still get them in canvas-covered cedar, though most outdoor enthusiasts prefer aluminum or Fiberglass.

It's the old American Indian canoe, and 110 companies in this country and Canada are busy making them at the rate of 100,000 a year.

Not that canoeing is one of those pastimes that has shown a spectacular increase in popularity in recent years.

"We're growing at a rate maybe of 6 per cent a year," Peter Sonderegger, editor and publisher of Canoe Magazine of St. Paul, Minn., said of canoe sales. "We have had increases of 15-20 per cent in one year, but it hasn't been as dramatic, for instance, as cross-country skiing or tennis."

"A few years ago when the book and movie 'Deliverance' came out, there was a dramatic increase in canoeing interest," he said. "Deliverance" was the violent adventure of a group of men canoeing down a wild river.

David Garrick, the 18th-century British actor, began his career as a wine merchant but soon turned to the stage. After his death in 1779, Edmund Burke wrote of him, "He raised the character of his profession to the rank of a liberal art."

Sonderegger said canoeing is an old, established recreation with new twists, including new emphasis on wilderness trips, whitewater canoeing and racing.

Canoes can be equipped with small motors and double as fishing boats, and can be rigged for sailing, too.

A survey by Canoe Magazine showed that 70 per cent of the canoes owned by Americans are aluminum. That doesn't mean the other materials aren't coming on strong — the survey showed canoes now come in 20 different materials.

If you have the time, and are willing to pay several hundred dollars more than the off-the-shelf price, and love the beauty and grace of natural wood, you can order a wooden canoe from manufacturers in New England, Quebec and New Brunswick in 14-to 18-foot lengths.

One wooden canoe, in the standard 17-foot length, weighs only 53 pounds, which is something to consider for portaging or car-loading. Some 17-foot aluminum canoes tip the scales as high as 95 pounds.

The lightest of all the standard or near-standard length canoes listed in the survey was a 16-foot, 4-inch craft made of epoxy Kevlar, that weighs only 37 pounds.

But it all depends on what you want to do with your canoe.

The heavy-gauge aluminum canoe is about as sturdy and durable a craft built.

Serious canoeists will argue for hours over whether aluminum or Fiberglass is best for whitewater canoeing.

"But the new synthetics are what it's coming to," said Sonderegger, who said some of the latest plastic materials are "virtually indestructible."

The 1977 price range for canoes runs from about $240 to $745. There are exceptions, of course, in both the upper and lower categories.

Market Report

NEW YORK (AP) —The stock market opened a shade higher today. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up .43 to 925.97 in the early going. Gainers were running slightly ahead of losers among issues listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

Meanwhile, Citibank, the nation's second largest bank, announced an increase from 6 1/4 to 6 1/2 per cent in its prime rate as the stock market opened.

The prime rate has been unchanged since January.

Analysts said that announcement might have the effect of weighing down the market since increases in the basic lending rate make business expansion more expensive.

The Federal Reserve Board's announcement of the nation's weekly money supply, issued after the close of the NYSE on Thursday, however, had provided some favorable news to traders in a money-sensitive market, analysts noted.

Early prices included Ethyl Corp., off 1/8 at 42 1/4; Bally, off 1/8 at 20 1/2; and Eastman Kodak, down 1/8 at 57 1/8.

On Thursday, the Dow Jones industrial average, down more than five points during the day, closed off 1.36 at 925.54.

Losers outnumbered gainers by only a small fraction among issues listed on the NYSE.

Big Board volume reached 21.98 million shares, up from 18.98 million on the previous day.

The NYSE's composite index lost .02 to 53.96.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .35 at 113.69.

Rec Center At KSU Stirs Protests

KENT, Ohio (AP) — Kent State University trustees are going ahead with plans for a new $6 million recreation center which has drawn student protests because of its proximity to the site of the May 4, 1970, National Guard shootings.

The trustees voted to approve the awarding of contracts Thursday after listening to the demands of about 800 demonstrators at the Student Center.

About 300 students jammed the Student Center for the demonstration sponsored by the May 4 Coalition, and another 500 overflowed outside the building for the session with the trustees.

The trustees let student representatives speak on four of their eight demands before cutting off discussion and voting to approve letting of contracts for the new building for the Health, Physical Education and Recreation Department.

Calling the session a travesty, the demonstrators left the Student Center and marched to the site where Ohio National Guardsmen killed four students and wounded nine others seven years ago.

Most of the demonstrators dispersed, but a handful set up four tents and announced plans to spend the night.

Opponents Blast Fencing Plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Opposition seemed to spring from nowhere Thursday as the House defeated 45-44 (with 50 needed for passage) a bill providing for construction of fences along scenic railroads.

The sponsor, Rep. Clair M. Ball Jr., D-91 Athens, said he knew of no opposition to the measure, and added that it had the endorsement of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation.

However, members apparently didn't like language in the bill which required landowners along scenic railroad rights of way to share equally with the nonprofit railroads the cost of building and repairing fences.

Procter & Gamble Cuts Coffee Prices

NEW YORK (AP) — The Cincinnati-based Procter & Gamble Co., second largest coffee roaster in America, cut the wholesale price of its Folger coffee by 25 cents a pound Thursday, the company's first reduction since last July.

A spokesman for the firm said the cut in ground coffee prices to $4.18 was due to "declines in green coffee prices in recent weeks." He would not disclose what the company pays for the unroasted coffee beans or whether its coffee sales have declined because of sharply rising retail prices.

A spokesman for General Foods Corp., the nation's biggest coffee roaster, said the company was studying the situation but had made no decision on its prices.

Procter & Gamble last raised its prices—by 25 cents a pound—on March 30. The spokesman said coffee carrying the $4.43 a pound price tag had not yet reached stores, however, and the new price of $4.18 a pound will affect all shipments.

The retail price of coffee has tripled since a 1975 frost cut into the Brazilian coffee crop. Other factors in the sharp increase include civil war in the African coffee-growing nation of Angola, earthquakes in Central America and a drought in Colombia. World production is not expected to return to normal until 1978-79.

Coffee sells at wholesale for well over $4, but many stores still sell it for around $3.59. Retailers often price coffee at or below wholesale to attract customers.

While wholesale and retail prices have been rising, prices on coffee futures markets have been declining. In the past month, futures prices on the London and New York markets have fallen from $3.40 a pound to $2.80 to $2.95 on heavy profit-taking. Prices have begun to rise again, however, as the lower prices spurred demand.

Futures traders buy and sell contracts guaranteeing delivery of a specific quantity of a commodity at a set time.

Another factor in falling prices is a decline in consumption.

Although Procter & Gamble would not say if Monday's decision was linked to falling sales, supermarkets around the country have reported a slump in coffee purchases.

Photographer Says Mantle 'Nastiest'

CHICAGO (AP) — Marilyn Monroe was the "most exciting," Mary Pickford "the nicest" and Mickey Mantle "the nastiest," recalls Mike Rotunno, who for 50 years stood watch at O'Hare International Airport to capture the world's celebrities on film.

Rotunno, now 74, also says a lingering kiss from the late Joan Crawford was "the best kiss of all" among the many bestowed upon him.

"Why should they kiss me?" he laughs. "Oh, you know how show-business people are. They're always kissing everyone."

Rotunno said in the early 1960's when Mantle was the baseball idol of many, "a policeman wanted me to take a picture of him with Mr. Mantle to give to his son. I told Mr. Mantle what the officer wanted and he shouted: 'Get away from me, you idiot.'"

Rotunno said his favorite president was Harry Truman. "Whenever he'd come through O'Hare he'd always drop in my office and I'd give him a shot of whisky."

Rotunno's wife, Winifred, is a former Chez Paree Adorable of Chicago's old nightclub circuit.

"Sometimes she'd hear that I'd kiss an actress and she'd ask how it was," said Rotunno. "I'd always say: 'Oh, her kisses weren't nearly as good as yours.' That's why we've stayed married for 43 years."

PHONICS GAMES — Parents of students at Laurelville School learned a number of phonics games which can be used to teach children to read. The games were taught during a workshop for parents of students who participate in Title I reading and math programs.

Laurelville Teachers Conduct Parents' Reading Workshop

Mrs. Nancy McKay and Mrs. Linda Cohen, teachers at Laurelville School, assisted by Mrs. Mary Rose, Reading Specialist, conducted a Parents' Workshop at Laurelville on Tuesday for the parents of students who participate in the Title I reading and math programs.

The impetus for the workshop came from the Title I Parents' Committee, Mrs. Sandy Annon, chairman. Mrs. Annon contacted Gobel Branham, Title I coordinator for the Logan Elm District, concerning ways the parents could help their students following the January school closing due to weather.

Mrs. McKay and Mrs. Cohen then offered to meet with the Laurelville Parents' Committee: Mrs. Nancy Hart, Mrs. Jean Cramblit, and Mrs. Jane Reid. It was decided that the most helpful activity would be for Mrs. McKay, Mrs. Cohen, and Mrs. Rose to conduct a workshop for concerned parents. Materials made at this workshop could then be used by the parents with their children during the summer.

Tuesday evening the workshop was held and parents learned and made games to use in retaining the reading and math skills the students have learned.

Games made included variations on Concentration and Bingo, a drill for math facts using the game fish, reading wheels, tachistoscopes with shapes to match the word bases, Uncle Wiggley Meets Ginn, a fish pond for the basic Dolch Sight Words, Make a Hamburger, and many more.

Probe Death Of Prisoner

CINCINNATI (AP) — Fifteen persons, including eight police officers, were scheduled to appear today before the Hamilton County grand jury investigating the death of a man who died following an altercation with police April 24.

Hamilton County Coroner Dr. Frank Cleveland ruled Wednesday that the death last Sunday of Paul Oder, 24, Cincinnati, at General Hospital, was a homicide.

Police reports contend that Oder assaulted a police officer outside a Northside section bar while they were arresting another man.

An attorney for Oder's family contended that witnesses said Oder was attacked by police as he watched. The witnesses accused police of striking Oder with a pistol.

Police officials refused comment on the assertions saying the case was under investigation.

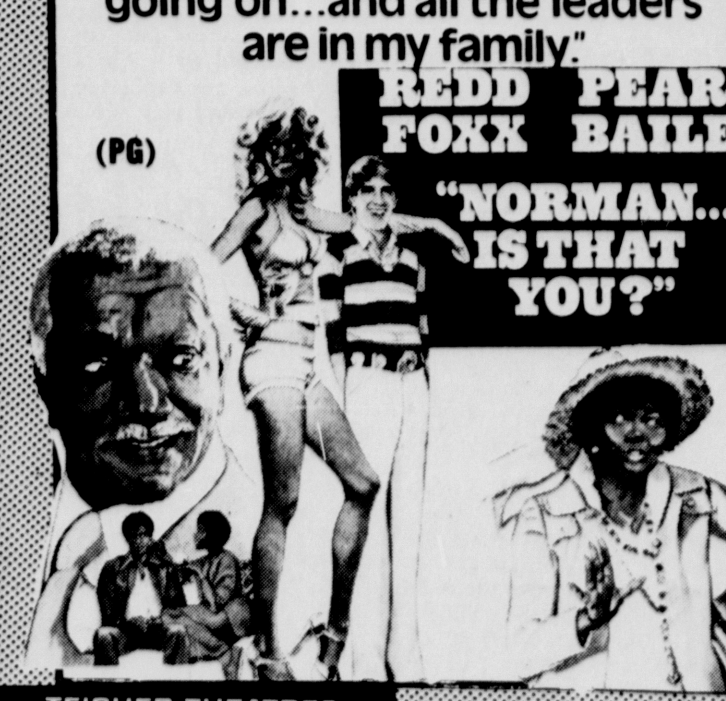

Dr. Cleveland said Oder died of skull fractures and brain damage.

"There's a sexual revolution going on...and all the leaders are in my family."

$373,000—Where Will It Come From

The Pickaway County Family YMCA building committee has collected $477,000 towards its goal of $850,000 to build a new YMCA complete with inside swimming pool, gymnasium, locker rooms, administrative offices and general purpose rooms.

The remaining $373,000 of the amount needed to build the new facility will have to come from individuals in the county.

Of the amount already pledged, $107,500 has come from industry, and the total will be about $120,000 from industry when the campaign is completed. This is a good share of the load for industry to carry.

Individuals and businesses within the Pickaway County area have contributed $369,500. Of that amount, 99 per cent has come from only 123 pledges of $500 or more.

There has been one pledge of $50,000, two of $20,000, four of between $10,000 and $19,999, 86 between $1,000 and $9,999, and 30 of between $500 and $999.

There must be more than enough individuals and businesses who believe in the work of the Y and who want to support it with contributions so the goal of $850,000 can be reached. There must be more than enough persons wishing to invest in the future of the county in this way.

Memorial gifts to the Y building fund are excellent ways to remember someone.

Invest in Pickaway County. Your contributions to the Y building fund is tax deductible and the investment will grow through service to the people of Pickaway County.

Israel's Fight With Itself

By JIM BISHOP

Israel will do battle next week. This time it will fight with itself. The Tuesday election has fragmented all the voting blocs and the government itself. Despairing, Golda Meir said the people have "gone crazy."

This isn't so. The people sleep with their eyelids open, they have been hurt by 40 per cent inflation, exorbitant taxes and scandal in high places. For 29 years they have lived in a state of 48-hour readiness for war.

A new generation of infants will vote. They are realists. To them David Ben-Gurion, Chaim Weizmann and Moshe Dayan are legends in books. The pioneers are respected monuments, but the young voters cannot eat a monument. They shake their heads at the boast of Gen. Ezer Weizman: "We can beat even the Russians."

Israel can spend a billion making a nuclear bomb. But it cannot export shoes or dress goods. Its trade deficit approaches $5 billion; it owes almost 10 billion; it accepted over 3 billion as a gift - or grant - from the United States.

There was an opportunity - between the Six-Day War of 1967 and the one on Yom Kippur in 1973 - to seek out a peace with the Arabs before oil became the ultimate weapon. The Labor Party, which has been in control of Israel, felt aloof and remote, dealing from a position of power.

Yitzhak Rabin, exposed in a minor scandal, knows that a war will force America to choose between oil and Israel. An Arab embargo, a weapon as legitimate as the one the U.S. has been using against Cuba, could cause a lot of machinery and vehicles to rust in the U.S.

It is as though this small nation must always be plagued by locusts. Immigration figures are down. A flood of Oriental Jews has created mutual anathema between the European Jews (the haves) and the Oriental (the have nots). A small tide of Europeans are leaving Israel.

The election, on the surface, is a fight for 120 seats in the Knesset. Actually, 90 are in contention. The remainder go to religious groups and Communists. Two small candidates favor the formation of a Palestinian state. The others are either opposed or silent.

At one time, the Labor Party had a majority - 63 seats. Today, in concert with the radical Mapam Party and the voting Arabs to the north, Labor holds 53 seats. To remain in power, they will have to take in another partner.

Rabin thought he would improve his image at home by meeting with President Carter. The talks were fruitless. The U.S. sends money, advice and the presence of the Sixth Fleet to help Israel. But public opinion here fades from its original fervor because the Palestinians must be dealt with equitably, and they will not go away.

Rabin, according to writer Yoel Marcus of Ha'aretz, is too self-righteous. He allowed his wife to be prosecuted for a bank account he must have endorsed. He calls Abba Eban "worthless" and Shimon Peres "a schemer."

The Rabin group has spread the word that Peres, the Defense Minister, is a "hawk" - a warlike man. There is nothing in truth to support this. He kept the Israeli army and air force alert when the reserves tired of successive alerts. He also engineered the rescue at Entebbe when his prime minister said, in effect, "It's on your head, Shimon."

Peres would like to achieve a permanent peace with the Arabs by giving a little, taking a little. He became popular here when he said, "Israel's economy and defense must not depend on America, and we must not become a cause of worry for American mothers or a nuisance to the U.S."

Each inflexible political party insists that it is flexible when it comes to peace. None is prepared to give up the west bank of the Jordan or submit the city of Jerusalem to international control. This leaves Israel precious little to give in return for peace.

Russian interest is not in the Syrian or Egyptians. Their interest is to bleed the U.S. economy as they did in Vietnam. They require a chronic tension in the Middle East. They give over-age MIGs and SAMs to belligerents; nothing the Kremlin can use.

No matter the result of next week's election, statesmen dream fondly of Americans sitting with Russians and coming to an agreement about permanent borders and recognition of Israel.

Together they could impose peace on the Middle East. . .

No Stereo In Space

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A recording of the sounds of pounding surf, wind, thunder, animals and birds, plus greetings in more than 50 languages, may be shot into space this summer.

But any extraterrestrial civilization looking for galactic listening pleasure will have to do some hi-fi tinkering. Although the record, called the Sounds of Earth, would be accompanied by instructions, phonograph head and needle, it won't be sent with a record player.

"If the civilization is advanced enough to capture the space craft, they would be advanced enough to find a way to amplify the sound," a National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesman said.

The proposal to send one of the silvery steel records on each of two Voyager spacecraft headed for Jupiter, Saturn and possibly Uranus and Neptune is being considered by Dr. Alan Lovelace, acting NASA administrator.

The old frame building at the rear of the city fire station was ordered demolished as it was declared a fire hazard and health menace. It served as a storage area for service department equipment and gear owned by the Circleville Pumpkin Show, Inc.

Mrs. Roscoe Warren, 213 Linden Lane, traveled to Columbus to see the "Old General", an historic locomotive of Civil War fame that was on display there as part of the Ohio Civil War Centennial Celebrations. Mrs. Warren's great-uncle, Marion Ross, was one of the famed Andrews Raiders who were hung following the "great locomotive chase" during the Civil War.

Fire destroyed a barn and adjoining storage shed at the Gene Patrick farm near Kingston. Also lost in the blaze were 55 head of market hogs, farm machinery and miscellaneous articles, two hog feeders, one hog fountain and 400 bales of hay.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I gather from some of your columns that you are not enthusiastic about health foods. What are your objections to them?

Miss F.R., Ohio

Dear Miss R.:

You "gather" wrong! I am not a detractor of the value of health foods. I am aware of the distinct benefits of many of them. I am also aware of the exorbitant cost of some of the health foods that seem to dominate the lives of many people.

I have known many homes that revolve around fixed and arbitrary ideas about health and nutrition. Some people can quote verbatim every statement ever made about the value of vitamin E for the aging, and endless preparations that "will prevent cancer," promote vigorous health and longevity.

No counter-argument can reach them, and the best the doctor can do is to let them go on their diet-happy ways without wasting energy in competitive scientific discussions.

The American public is witnessing a marked transition from old ideas in nutrition to a better understanding of the quality of food that makes for better health. Young people, particularly, have never been so alert to the dangers of chemical additives in foods and to the advantages of eating foods grown on soil free of harsh chemicals.

Water pollution, with its secondary effect on fish and sea food, rightfully occupies the attention of the consumer, young and old.

Their pressures on city, state and health agencies are responsible for some of the protective legislation that is now being considered or already put into action.

What, then, is the danger to health of the ardent food faddists? The one single hazard lies in the false belief that specialized foods are disease-preventatives and thus substitutes for good medical attention.

It is only when magical and mystical properties are given to these foods, herbs and vitamins that the believers avoid seeking the medical direction they may need. This is when I am not "enthusiastic."

I reiterate that many of these health foods are of distinct value and benefit. I do not, however, believe that the unconscionable cost of some of these health foods are worth the investment.

The health destiny, from birth to old age, depends on good nutrition. Sensible awareness, rather than gullibility, is the key to the better understanding of the value of nutrition.

Dear Editor:

Circleville is very fortunate to have such fine organizations as the Circleville High School Service Over Self Club and the Circleville DeMolay. Through their assistance as volunteers, Saturday, May 7, Unit 134 American Legion Auxiliary had one of its best years collection wise for several years on its annual Poppy Day.

Their enthusiasm in meeting and talking with the kind people who put coins in their canisters and wore a Memorial Poppy thrilled us to know these young people do care for those less fortunate veterans, who served our country and are now hospitalized or disabled.

Through their great effort, we will be able to carry on our year round program at Veterans Administration Hospital, Chillicothe and give assistance to disabled veterans in our community.

Time is a precious commodity when you are young and for these young people to give a day for this project renews our faith that they will make fine citizens to carry on helping to run local government and perhaps higher levels of government.

We are very grateful to all these young people and wish the best for them as they go forward in their club work.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The next significant employee benefits to be added to a growing list might be automobile and home insurance.

While no large employers have made real movement in those areas, the time soon may be ripe, says a spokesman for a firm that advises scores of blue chip companies on employee benefits.

"There is a big void to be filled," said Leonard Mactas, a recognized authority on corporate benefit plans.

Tracing the development of benefits since the end of World War II, Mactas feels that by 1980 some companies may begin to include these two insurances.

"The trend among employers has been to respond to identifiable employee needs," said Mactas. And while homeowners' insurance costs might not have become painfully expensive, auto insurance most certainly has. It's a need.

Other factors are involved also, says Mactas, who heads the Consulting Actuaries Division of Kwasha Lipton, an international firm that helped develop many of today's largest employee benefit programs.

Having sustained repeated losses, automobile insurers are wary of the business, to cite one factor. And large corporations — even smaller ones — can help keep costs in line through the efficiencies of volume.

In Mactas' view, the inclusion of these insurances would be in keeping with a trend toward using the corporation as a vehicle to make life more secure for individuals.

Besides volume buying power, or to state it another way, the ability to benefit from lower group rates, the employer also has the ability to analyze complicated contractual plans and provide bookkeeping services as well.

Moreover, the tax laws are such that employers and employees are aggressively interested in benefits rather than wages alone. Most benefits are tax-deductible for the employer and tax-free for the employee.

In addition, benefit plans are believed by many employers to result in greater employee loyalty, and in general to promote happier, more secure and perhaps more productive workers.

Over the years the portfolio of employee benefits has developed from pensions and profitsharing to health and disability insurance, dental insurance, and most recently legal insurance. Except for some life insurance costs, these expenses are totally tax deductible to the employer.

It is partly for this reason that the standard among large companies today is to pay in full for such benefits. And the result, in effect, is to provide the worker with tax-sheltered income.

Neither automobile nor homeowners insurance is now eligible for similar tax treatment, but in Mactas' view some companies might be inclined to offer the plans anyway.

"If employers can step in on a group basis I think it would be a tremendous service to workers," he said, adding that he feels Congress might then be inclined to permit employers to deduct the expenses, as they do for other benefits.

They'll Do It Every Time

Indian Canoes Surge In Popularity

MILWAUKEE (AP) — They're made of Diolen, epoxy laminate, Mithril, Martex, polyvinyl chloride, polyethylene, Royalex, Oltonar, nylon, Kevlar and carbon fiber.

You can still get them in canvas-covered cedar, though most outdoor enthusiasts prefer aluminum or Fiberglas.

It's the old American Indian canoe, and 110 companies in this country and Canada are busy making them at the rate of 100,000 a year.

Not that canoeing is one of those pastimes that has shown a spectacular increase in popularity in recent years.

"We're growing at a rate maybe of 6 per cent a year," Peter Sonderegger, editor and publisher of Canoe Magazine of St. Paul, Minn., said of canoe sales. "We have had increases of 15-20 per cent in one year, but it hasn't been as dramatic, for instance, as cross-country skiing or tennis."

"A few years ago when the book and movie 'Deliverance' came out, there was a dramatic increase in canoeing interest," he said. "Deliverance" was the violent adventure of a group of men canoeing down a wild river.

David Garrick, the 18th-century British actor, began his career as a wine merchant but soon turned to the stage. After his death in 1779, Edmund Burke wrote of him, "He raised the character of his profession to the rank of a liberal art."

Sonderegger said canoeing is an old, established recreation with new twists, including new emphasis on wilderness trips, whitewater canoeing and racing.

Canoes can be equipped with small motors and double as fishing boats, and can be rigged for sailing, too.

A survey by Canoe Magazine showed that 70 per cent of the canoes owned by Americans are aluminum. That doesn't mean the other materials aren't coming on strong — the survey showed canoes now come in 20 different materials.

If you have the time, and are willing to pay several hundred dollars more than the off-the-shelf price, and love the beauty and grace of natural wood, you can order a wooden canoe from manufacturers in New England, Quebec and New Brunswick in 14-to 18-foot lengths.

One wooden canoe, in the standard 17-foot length, weighs only 53 pounds, which is something to consider for portaging or car-loading. Some 17-foot aluminum canoes tip the scales as high as 95 pounds.

The lightest of all the standard or near-standard length canoes listed in the survey was a 16-foot, 4-inch craft made of epoxy Kevlar, that weighs only 37 pounds.

But it all depends on what you want to do with your canoe.

The heavy-gauge aluminum canoe is about as sturdy and durable a craft built.

Serious canoeists will argue for hours over whether aluminum or Fiberglas is best for whitewater canoeing.

"But the new synthetics are what it's coming to," said Sonderegger, who said some of the latest plastic materials are "virtually indestructible."

The 1977 price range for canoes runs from about $240 to $745. There are exceptions, of course, in both the upper and lower categories.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Couple 'Adopted' By Wealthy Woman

DEAR ABBY: My friend is a wealthy 76-year-old widow who is being "taken" by a couple in their 40s who lives near her.

This couple is a husband-and-wife team who have made a "career" out of being this widow's friend. They see that she has company every evening (inviting themselves to her home for dinner), they do all her chores: shopping, cleaning, painting, yard work, etc.

I understand they even have a key to her home and her safety deposit box! She bought them a new car and has given them an interest-free loan so their son could go to college.

I am told that these con artists are going to get a bulk of her estate when she passes on. I think her estate should go to her own kinfolk who live in a faraway state, don't you?

Should I get in touch with her relatives and tell them what is going on here? They haven't been here in years, so they have no way of knowing.

CONCERNED FRIEND
DEAR CONCERNED: Allowing for your good intentions, I think you are meddling in your friend's affairs. She obviously appreciates the couple's companionship and help, and unless she is mentally incompetent, she's entitled to do whatever she wants with her money—now and later.

Her kinfolk who haven't visited this aging widowed relative in years seem less deserving to share in her estate than the neighbors you describe.

EPA Blasted For Delaying River Testing

CINCINNATI (AP) — Federal inaction is holding up implementation of an early warning system to detect chemical compounds in the Ohio River, officials of the Ohio River Valley Water Sanitation Commission said Thursday.

"It is incredible that this program should be allowed to languish for seven weeks," said Ralph Pickard, OR-SANCO chairman, in charging the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency with failing to act on its initial enthusiasm for the project.

ORSANCO officials went to Washington seven weeks ago in hopes of gaining funding for the plan, which would help avoid any repetition of last February's incident in which a 70-ton spill of carbon tetrachloride made its way undetected into the Ohio River.

At their meeting in Cincinnati Thursday, commissioners from Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia voted not only in favor of the concept of the early monitoring system, but also to speed its installation.

Pickard said the EPA has urged the organization to explore other avenues of financing.

"We can't wait to seek other avenues," Pickard said. "We must have the detection system now."

DEAR ABBY: I think my husband is entirely too friendly to strange women. For instance, he will bury his nose in an elevator operator's hair and say, "My, you have beautiful hair—and it smells nice, too."

Or he will compliment a waitress on her "beautiful legs" or "school-girl figure."

When I tell him that it shows a lack of respect to me when he does this in my presence, he says he is only trying to make a poor working girl feel good. How do you feel about this sort of thing, Abby? Am I wrong to resent it?

BARRY'S WIFE
DEAR WIFE: It is ill-mannered and presumptuous for a man to make personal remarks (complimentary or otherwise) to strange women in (or out of) his wife's presence.

Tell Barry if he doesn't cut it out, one of those poor working girls is apt to work him over.

DEAR ABBY: I am 16 and have a CB radio. Last month I met someone in person that I used to talk to on the radio. We go to the same school, so he was easy to meet.

This person is 15 and spends his weekends at Juvenile Hall. He told me last week that he has six months more at Juvy Hall, after which he will be on probation for a long time. He said he would rather kill himself than to keep going back there for weekends, and that is what he is planning to do.

He said his mother is finally sick of him, and his stepdad couldn't care less about him. I asked if he didn't have some relatives he could stay with, and he said nobody wants him.

Do you think it would be a wise decision to ask this person to come and live with my family because that's exactly what he needs. A family. I think living with us could help him a lot. What do you think?

T.S.
DEAR T.S.: I think you are to be commended for your concern about this person's welfare, but it's up to your parents to make that decision, not me.

Tiny School Has Earthy Approach

WHITE EARTH, N.D. (AP) — Teacher Mae Helling's oneroom country school is located in the remote, rugged rangeland of western North Dakota. Because of the isolation, she tries to prepare her students for the outside world after they graduate.

Because they're farm and ranch children, the current nine students in grades one through seven know about the birds and bees.

Beyond that, they'll enter a new, alien way of life after graduating from the eighth grade and moving on to high schools in the prairie towns of Tioga and Stanley.

"I tell them that not everybody is going to like everybody else, and that there will be disappointments," says the white-haired Mrs. Helling, who often wears cowboy boots to school.

"I tell them that they're going to hear about evolution — I don't teach it any more than I have to — and I suggest they just stand by the Bible, that they not be led away by fads.

"I teach them that the greatest commandment of all is love."

Mrs. Helling, who says she's well past retirement age, has been a teacher for 45 years, including 17 at the rural Chilcot School. The closest post office is 30 miles away at White Earth.

Mrs. Helling isn't a "textbook teacher," but she says six former students were on the honor rolls at Tioga and Stanley this year.

Desks are scattered informally about the room in the white frame building. A handbell that gets daily use is in the corner.

"The thing is to do whatever work is best for the individual child," says Mrs. Helling, whose three grandchildren are among her students. "If I have a slow reader, we sit right down and work with him alone.

"We don't wait for any special period or time to talk about something. We just strike when the iron is hot — when the interest is there."

Discipline problems are few: "We take care of that real fast. Sometimes we get to the seat of the problem. Sometimes we make public announcements (in front of the students) that are quite effective."

Drug problems? "We don't have any. But that's not to say we couldn't. We try to alert our children without being too conspicuous so as to make the drug thing an attraction."

Parents and neighbors flock to the school at Christmas and in the spring for eighth-grade graduation. They arrive via the Goat Trail "because that's what the road once was," says

Mrs. Helling.

A fiddler breaks out a tune to start the festivity, a couple of guitar players join in, and everybody starts singing — mostly western songs. Christmas and graduation are the highlights of the school year.

But there won't be any diplomas handed out on the school's front steps this spring because there aren't any eighth-graders.

Next year there will be two.

$373,000—Where Will It Come From

The Pickaway County Family YMCA building committee has collected $477,000 towards its goal of $850,000 to build a new YMCA complete with inside swimming pool, gymnasium, locker rooms, administrative offices and general purpose rooms.

The remaining $373,000 of the amount needed to build the new facility will have to come from individuals in the county.

Of the amount already pledged, $107,500 has come from industry, and the total will be about $120,000 from industry when the campaign is completed. This is a good share of the load for industry to carry.

Individuals and businesses within the Pickaway County area have contributed $369,500. Of that amount, 99 per cent has come from only 123 pledges of $500 or more.

There has been one pledge of $50,000, two of $20,000, four of between $10,000 and $19,999, 86 between $1,000 and $9,999, and 30 of between $500 and $999.

There must be more than enough individuals and businesses who believe in the work of the Y and who want to support it with contributions so the goal of $850,000 can be reached. There must be more than enough persons wishing to invest in the future of the county in this way.

Memorial gifts to the Y building fund are excellent ways to remember someone.

Invest in Pickaway County. Your contributions to the Y building fund is tax deductible and the investment will grow through service to the people of Pickaway County.

Israel's Fight With Itself

By JIM BISHOP

Israel will do battle next week. This time it will fight with itself. The Tuesday election has fragmented all the voting blocs and the government itself. Despairing, Golda Meir said the people have "gone crazy."

This isn't so. The people sleep with their eyelids open. They have been hurt by 40 per cent inflation, exorbitant taxes and scandal in high places. For 29 years they have lived in a state of 48-hour readiness for war.

A new generation of infants will vote. They are realists. To them David Ben-Gurion, Chaim Weizmann and Moshe Dayan are legends in books. The pioneers are respected monuments, but the young voters cannot eat a monument. They shake their heads at the boast of Gen. Ezer Weizman: "We can beat even the Russians."

Israel can spend a billion making a nuclear bomb. But it cannot export shoes or dress goods. Its trade deficit approaches $5 billion; it owes almost 10 billion; it accepted over 3 billion as a gift - or grant - from the United States.

There was an opportunity - between the Six-Day War of 1967 and the one on Yom Kippur in 1973 - to seek out a peace with the Arabs before oil became the ultimate weapon. The Labor Party, which has been in control of Israel, felt aloof and remote, dealing from a position of power.

Yitzhak Rabin, exposed in a minor scandal, knows that a war will force America to choose between oil and Israel. An Arab embargo, a weapon as legitimate as the one the U.S. has been using against Cuba, could cause a lot of machinery and vehicles to rust in the U.S.

It is as though this small nation must always be plagued by locusts. Immigration figures are down. A flood of Oriental Jews has created mutual anathema between the European Jews (the haves) and the Oriental (the have nots). A small tide of Europeans are leaving Israel.

The election, on the surface, is a fight for 120 seats in the Knesset. Actually, 90 are in contention. The remainder go to religious groups and Communists. Two small candidates favor the formation of a Palestinian state. The others are either opposed or silent.

At one time, the Labor Party had a majority - 63 seats. Today, in concert with the radical Mapam Party and the voting Arabs to the north, Labor holds 53 seats. To remain in power, they will have to take in another partner.

Rabin thought he would improve his image at home by meeting with President Carter. The talks were fruitless. The U.S. sends money, advice and the presence of the Sixth Fleet to help Israel. But public opinion here fades from its original fervor because the Palestinians must be dealt with equitably, and they will not go away.

Rabin, according to writer Yoel Marcus of Ha'aretz, is too self-righteous. He allowed his wife to be prosecuted for a bank account he must have endorsed. He calls Abba Eban "worthless" and Shimon Peres "a schemer."

The Rabin group has spread the word that Peres, the Defense Minister, is a "hawk" - a warlike man. There is nothing in truth to support this. He kept the Israeli army and air force alert when the reserves tired of successive alerts. He also engineered the rescue at Entebbe when his prime minister said, in effect, "It's on your head, Shimon."

Peres would like to achieve a permanent peace with the Arabs by giving a little, taking a little. He became popular here when he said, "Israel's economy and defense must not depend on America, and we must not become a cause of worry for American mothers or a nuisance to the U.S."

Each inflexible political party insists that it is flexible when it comes to peace. None is prepared to give up the west bank of the Jordan or submit the city of Jerusalem to international control. This leaves Israel precious little to give in return for peace.

Russian interest is not in the Syrian or Egyptians. Their interest is to bleed the U.S. economy as they did in Vietnam. They require a chronic tension in the Middle East. They give over-age MIGs and SAMs to belligerents; nothing the Kremlin can use.

No matter the result of next week's election, statesmen dream fondly of Americans sitting with Russians and coming to an agreement about permanent borders and recognition of Israel.

Together they could impose peace on the Middle East. . .

No Stereo In Space

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A recording of the sounds of pounding surf, wind, thunder, animals and birds, plus greetings in more than 50 languages, may be shot into space this summer.

But any extraterrestrial civilization looking for galactic listening pleasure will have to do some hi-fi tinkering. Although the record, called the Sounds of Earth, would be accompanied by instructions, phonograph head and needle, it won't be sent with a record player.

"If the civilization is advanced enough to capture the space craft, they would be advanced enough to find a way to amplify the sound," a National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesman said.

The proposal to send one of the silvery steel records on each of two Voyager spacecraft headed for Jupiter, Saturn and possibly Uranus and Neptune is being considered by Dr. Alan Lovelace, acting NASA administrator.

Mrs. Roscoe Warren, 213 Linden Lane, traveled to Columbus to see the "Old General", an historic locomotive of Civil War fame that was on display there as part of the Ohio Civil War Centennial Celebrations. Mrs. Warren's great-uncle, Marion Ross, was one of the famed Andrews Raiders who were hung following the "great locomotive chase" during the Civil War.

Fire destroyed a barn and adjoining storage shed at the Gene Patrick farm near Kingston. Also lost in the blaze were 55 head of market hogs, farm machinery and miscellaneous articles, two hog feeders, one hog fountain and 400 bags of hay.

LAFF - A - DAY

"Wouldn't it be great if we could afford our standard of living?"

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I gather from some of your columns that you are not enthusiastic about health foods. What are your objections to them?

Miss F.R., Ohio

Dear Miss R.:

You "gather" wrong! I am not a detractor of the value of health foods. I am aware of the distinct benefits of many of them. I am also aware of the exorbitant cost of some of the health foods that seem to dominate the lives of many people.

I have known many homes that revolve around fixed and arbitrary ideas about health and nutrition. Some people can quote verbatim every statement ever made about the value of vitamin E for the aging, and endless preparations that "will prevent cancer," promote vigorous health and longevity.

No counter-argument can reach them, and the best the doctor can do is to let them go on their diet-happy ways without wasting energy in competitive scientific discussions.

The American public is witnessing a marked transition from old ideas in nutrition to a better understanding of the quality of food that makes for better health. Young people, particularly, have never been so alert to the dangers of chemical additives in foods and to the advantages of eating foods grown on soil free of harsh chemicals.

Water pollution, with its secondary effect on fish and sea food, rightfully occupies the attention of the consumer, young and old.

Their pressures on city, state and health agencies are responsible for some of the protective legislation that is now being considered or already put into action.

What, then, is the danger to health of the ardent food faddists? The one single hazard lies in the false belief that specialized foods are disease-preventatives and thus substitutes for good medical attention.

It is only when magical and mystical properties are given to these foods, herbs and vitamins that the believers avoid seeking the medical direction they may need. This is when I am not "enthusiastic."

I reiterate that many of these health foods are of distinct value and benefit. I do not, however, believe that the unconscionable cost of some of these health foods are worth the investment.

The health destiny, from birth to old age, depends on good nutrition. Sensible awareness, rather than gullibility, is the key to the better understanding of the value of nutrition.

Dear Editor:

Circleville is very fortunate to have such fine organizations as the Circleville High School Service Over Self Club and the Circleville DeMolay. Through their assistance as volunteers, Saturday, May 7, Unit 134 American Legion Auxiliary had one of its best years collection wise for several years on its annual Poppy Day.

Their enthusiasm in meeting and talking with the kind people who put coins in their canisters and wore a Memorial Poppy thrilled us to know these young people do care for those less fortunate veterans, who served our country and are now hospitalized or disabled.

Through their great effort, we will be able to carry on our year round program at Veterans Administration Hospital, Chillicothe and give assistance to disabled veterans in our community.

Time is a precious commodity when you are young and for these young people to give a day for this project renews our faith that they will make fine citizens to carry on helping to run local government and perhaps higher levels of government.

We are very grateful to all these young people and wish the best for them as they go forward in their club work.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The next significant employee benefits to be added to a growing list might be automobile and home insurance.

While no large employers have made real movement in those areas, the time soon may be ripe, says a spokesman for a firm that advises scores of blue chip companies on employee benefits.

"There is a big void to be filled," said Leonard Mactas, a recognized authority on corporate benefit plans.

Tracing the development of benefits since the end of World War II, Mactas feels that by 1980 some companies may begin to include these two insurances.

"The trend among employers has been to respond to identifiable employee needs," said Mactas. And while homeowners' insurance costs might not have become painfully expensive, auto insurance most certainly has. It's a need.

Other factors are involved also, says Mactas, who heads the Consulting Actuaries Division of Kwasha Lipton, an international firm that helped develop many of today's largest employee benefit programs.

Having sustained repeated losses, automobile insurers are wary of the business, to cite one factor. And large corporations — even smaller ones — can help keep costs in line through the efficiencies of volume.

In Mactas' view, the inclusion of these insurances would be in keeping with a trend toward using the corporation as a vehicle to make life more secure for individuals.

Besides volume buying power, or to state it another way, the ability to benefit from lower group rates, the employer also has the ability to analyze complicated contractual plans and provide bookkeeping services as well.

Moreover, the tax laws are such that employers and employees are aggressively interested in benefits rather than wages alone. Most benefits are tax-deductible for the employer and tax-free for the employee.

In addition, benefit plans are believed by many employers to result in greater employee loyalty, and in general to promote happier, more secure and perhaps more productive workers.

Over the years the portfolio of employee benefits has developed from pensions and profitsharing to health and disability insurance, dental insurance, and most recently legal insurance. Except for some life insurance costs, these expenses are totally tax deductible to the employer.

It is partly for this reason that the standard among large companies today is to pay in full for such benefits. And the result, in effect, is to provide the worker with tax-sheltered income.

Neither automobile nor homeowners insurance is now eligible for similar tax treatment, but in Mactas' view some companies might be inclined to offer the plans anyway.

"If employers can step in on a group basis I think it would be a tremendous service to workers," he said, adding that he feels Congress might then be inclined to permit employers to deduct the expenses, as they do for other benefits.

Couple 'Adopted' By Wealthy Woman

DEAR ABBY: My friend is a wealthy 76-year-old widow who is being "taken" by a couple in their 40s who lives near her.

This couple is a husband-and-wife team who have made a "career" out of being this widow's friend. They see that she has company every evening (inviting themselves to her home for dinner), they do all her chores: shopping, cleaning, painting, yard work, etc.

I understand they even have a key to her home and her safety deposit box! She bought them a new car and has given them an interest-free loan so their son could go to college.

I am told that these con artists are going to get a bulk of her estate when she passes on. I think her estate should go to her own kinfolk who live in a faraway state, don't you?

Should I get in touch with her relatives and tell them what is going on here? They haven't been here in years, so they have no way of knowing.

CONCERNED FRIEND

DEAR CONCERNED: Allowing for your good intentions, I think you are meddling in your friend's affairs. She obviously appreciates the couple's companionship and help, and unless she is mentally incompetent, she's entitled to do whatever she wants with her money—now and later.

Her kinfolk who haven't visited this aging widowed relative in years seem less deserving to share in her estate than the neighbors you describe.

EPA Blasted For Delaying River Testing

CINCINNATI (AP) — Federal inaction is holding up implementation of an early warning system to detect chemical compounds in the Ohio River, officials of the Ohio River Valley Water Sanitation Commission said Thursday.

"It is incredible that this program should be allowed to languish for seven weeks," said Ralph Pickard, OR-SANCO chairman, in charging the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency with failing to act on its initial enthusiasm for the project.

ORSANCO officials went to Washington seven weeks ago in hopes of gaining funding for the plan, which would help avoid any repetition of last February's incident in which a 70-ton spill of carbon tetrachloride made its way undetected into the Ohio River.

At their meeting in Cincinnati Thursday, commissioners from Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia voted not only in favor of the concept of the early monitoring system, but also to speed its installation.

Pickard said the EPA has urged the organization to explore other avenues of financing.

"We can't wait to seek other avenues," Pickard said. "We must have the detection system now."

Tiny School Has Earthy Approach

WHITE EARTH, N.D. (AP) — Teacher Mae Helling's oneroom country school is located in the remote, rugged rangeland of western North Dakota. Because of the isolation, she tries to prepare her students for the outside world after they graduate.

Because they're farm and ranch children, the current nine students in grades one through seven know about the birds and bees.

Beyond that, they'll enter a new, alien way of life after graduating from the eighth grade and moving on to high schools in the prairie towns of Tioga and Stanley.

"I tell them that not everybody is going to like everybody else, and that there will be disappointments," says the white-haired Mrs. Helling, who often wears cowboy boots to school.

"I tell them that they're going to hear about evolution — I don't teach it any more than I have to — and I suggest they just stand by the Bible, that they not be led away by fads.

"I teach them that the greatest commandment of all is love."

Mrs. Helling, who says she's well past retirement age, has been a teacher for 45 years, including 17 at the rural Chilcot School. The closest post office is 30 miles away at White Earth.

Mrs. Helling isn't a "textbook teacher," but she says six former students were on the honor rolls at Tioga and Stanley this year.

Desks are scattered informally about the room in the white frame building. A handbell that gets daily use is in the corner.

"The thing is to do whatever work is best for the individual child," says Mrs. Helling, whose three grandchildren are among her students. "If I have a slow reader, we sit right down and work with him alone.

"We don't wait for any special period or time to talk about something. We just strike when the iron is hot — when the interest is there."

Discipline problems are few: "We take care of that real fast. Sometimes we get to the seat of the problem. Sometimes we make public announcements (in front of the students) that are quite effective."

Drug problems? "We don't have any. But that's not to say we couldn't. We try to alert our children without being too conspicuous so as to make the drug thing an attraction."

Parents and neighbors flock to the school at Christmas and in the spring for eighth-grade graduation. They arrive via the Goat Trail "because that's what the road once was," says

Mrs. Helling.

A fiddler breaks out a tune to start the festivity, a couple of guitar players join in, and everybody starts singing — mostly western songs. Christmas and graduation are the highlights of the school year.

But there won't be any diplomas handed out on the school's front steps this spring because there aren't any eighth-graders.

Next year there will be two.

State Drops In Per Capital Income

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's per capita income has fallen below the average for the nation, the Columbus-based Ohio Public Expenditure Council reports.

It said the annual per person income average in 1965 was $2,890 or 3.8 per cent above the national average.

In 1975, it has grown to $5,810, but was 1.6 below the national average of $5,902.

Among all states, Ohio slipped from 15th to 22nd.

The expenditure council, a nonprofit, nonpartisan organization financed through contributions, had other dubious information about Ohio in this week's edition of the publication "Tax Facts."

It noted that the state is falling behind, in percentage, in its share of federal aid to state and local governments.

The council said Ohio and its subdivisions got only 3.7 per cent of all such federal aid in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1976, compared to 4.4 per cent in the corresponding period ending in June 1966.

One major reason is that in order to receive federal funds, states and local governments have to come up with a certain amount of matching local dollars.

"Citizens and taxpayers should be aware of the costs involved in attempting to secure federal aid monies....," the council advised.

House members thought they were in for a lecture for sure when conservative Rep. Gene Damschroder, R-85 Fremont, was recognized to speak in a debate over lawmaker salaries and fringe benefits.

Damschroder is the House member who received national publicity earlier this year when he gave the state his personal check for $7,000—representing the first two years of a $3,500-a-year pay hike the lawmakers voted themselves two years ago.

Being debated in the House was a legislative budget for 1977-1979 which represented a 37 per cent increase for the House and a boost of 30 per cent for the Senate.

To that point, most of the speakers had cited increasing demands on lawmakers, the switch to annual sessions a few years back, the higher price of staff help, among other reasons for the hike.

"We're getting so valuable around here," said Damschroder as his colleagues winced, "Mr. Speaker, I was wondering if you could figure out a way to get my $7,000 back." The House roared with laughter.

Sen. Robert D. Freeman, D-29 Canton, is asking the federal government to issue a postage stamp commemorating the 175th anniversary of Ohio Statehood. Congress recognizes the milestone as March 1, 1978.

He suggests it be called "Super Seasqui" because the full Latin name—centesimus septuagintimus quintus—is too hard to remember.

Freeman also is calling upon fellow lawmakers, along with historical societies around the state, to determine what occasions should be celebrated.

LOOSE COW — Livestock workers corralled a loose cow about 2:30 p.m. Wednesday at Scioto and Ohio Sts. The belligerent animal put up quite a fuss, according to witnesses, who were chased from porch to porch until the workers formed a ring at the intersection. Pickaway County Humane Officers and Ptl. Jim Ford of the Circleville Police Department were also on hand.

Factory Foreman Wins Ohio Lottery

CLEVELAND (AP) — Columbus factory foreman Alva Walker, who won $140,000 in the Ohio lottery Thursday night, says he's going to "build a white picket fence around my little world."

The little world where Walker, 43, and his wife, Helen, live centers on their "ranch-style house on a postage-stamp lot" in Grove City.

They have three children, and Walker, who has worked at the Fisher Body plant for 22½ years, said he loves to "get out in the yard and fool around."

He also likes to golf and bowl and said he has no plans to retire.

Walker brought a cheering section of about 15 persons with him Thursday night, including bar manager Mike Toner, who sold him his winning ticket.

"Every week since the lottery started, Mike has saved me the first two tickets off one of his rolls," Walker said.

Walker wore a key chain as a good luck charm. He said the charm, containing a glass of mustard seeds, was given to him Tuesday night by rivet operator LuAnn Thompson. He said he'd wear it again next week when he gets to come back for another try at the Pot O'Gold and up to $250,000 in prizes.

This week's defending champ, Arthur Reichman of Dover, won $10,000 to add to the $115,000 he took home in two previous appearances.

Paul Amrhein of Wheeling, W. Va. won $50,000 in the TV Bonus drawing for losers in the instant game.

The second prize of $10,000 in the drawing for persons sending in four losing tickets from the instant game went to M. Nieman of Cincinnati. Robert Diliberto of Independence won the $5,000 third prize in the TV bonus drawing.

Other Pot O'Gold winners included Becky Stamm of Toledo, $8,200; Junior Burga of North Canton, $9,400; James Palmer of Massillon $6,000, and Ed Spinks Jr. of Zanesville, $7,100.

'La Pasionaria'

Returns To Spain

MOSCOW (AP) — Dolores Ibarruri, the Spanish Communist party's "La Pasionaria," has picked up her Spanish passport and is expected to return to her homeland for the first time since the Spanish civil war.

Spain's embassy here confirmed on Thursday that the 82-year-old Mrs. Ibarruri had been given the passport but officials of Spain's Communist party here declined to say when she would return.

Mrs. Ibarruri fled to Moscow in 1939.

Gasoline Tax Increase Urged

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Indiana Farm Bureau wants Indiana legislators to approve a state gasoline tax increase of two cents a gallon during their special session which begins May 23.

Holly P. Moon, the group's legislative director, wants the additional revenue to be used for road maintenance.

The regular session of the legislature adjourned April 30 without passing a gasoline tax increase. Gov. Otis R. Bowen had recommended a three cent a gallon increase, but Democrats would not agree on the size of the increase. An effort by conferees to settle the issue was unsuccessful and bills to raise the tax died with the adjournment.

Domestic fuel consumption is expected to leap from 8.9 billion gallons in 1976 to 15.6 billion in 1988, says a recent report by the Federal Aviation Administration.

Catch up with level billing

No one needs to remind you how cold it was this past winter. In fact, it was the coldest winter Ohio has experienced in the last 100 years.

Colder temperatures mean higher gas and electric bills. DP&L recognizes this, and we are offering a six-month Level Billing plan to help ease the impact for those customers who are behind in their utility bills.

Here's how it works:

Your unpaid balance will be . . . spread over a period of six months. The amount currently owing and your anticipated billing through October will be divided by six beginning with your May bill.

To get started . . . just pay the amount listed on your statement for "Level Bill." This will automatically put you on the road to being caught up on your gas and electric bill by October.

Remember . . . participation in Level Billing protects your credit rating and prevents further collection action. Also, this plan is offered at no cost to you. You still pay only for the service you use.

Over 78 percent of our customers have already enjoyed the convenience of Level Billing.

Check your May bill for further details!

Commissioning Service Set At 1st CCCU

A Commissioning Service for Miss Elsie Conley will be held at the First Church of Christ in Christian Union, 436 East Ohio Street during the Sunday morning service.

Miss Conley serves with the Churches of Christ in Christian Union, with headquarters in Circleville. Before ministering in New Guinea, she served on the island of Dominica in the West Indies for six years.

Missionary interest was kindled in her early teens when she heard a missionary to China speak. Following graduation from high school in her native state of Kentucky, Miss Conley studied at Teachers' College in Pippassee, Kentucky for two years. While there her interest in foreign missions was rekindled. A few weeks after completing junior college work, she sensed a definite call of God to become a missionary. In further preparation for the mission field, Miss Conley studied Bible at Circleville Bible College, graduating with a B.S.L. degree in 1959.

Her missionary service began in Dominica in September, 1959. She pastored a church at Fond St. Jean, engaged in child and youth evangelism, and taught part time at the Bible School. She ministered in Dominica until September, 1965.

In December 1966, Miss Conley transferred to the field of New Guinea. During her term she taught in the primary and pigin literary schools, and also helped in the medical work.

Upon returning to the states for furlough, she attended Cedarville College in Ohio to further her teachers training in elementary education.

She returned to New Guinea in August, 1972, and was situated at the Farata outstation. She supervised the

Frostbite Kills Nixon Cypress

CINCINNATI (AP) — Frostbite has killed a tree planted in honor of former President Richard Nixon, says the director of Cincinnati's city parks.

The 20-year-old tree, a bald cypress planted after the 1968 election, has three frost cracks from the severe winter and was pronounced dead Thursday, parks director Fred Payne said.

The tree is part of the President's Grove, which was established at Eden Park in 1882. Nixon requested it be a cypress, according to Payne's office.

Wallace Appears On TV Monday

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace will appear on ABC's "Good Morning America" television program Monday to discuss the attempt on his life during the 1972 presidential campaign, aides said.

Wallace was wounded in 1972 while campaigning at a Laurel, Md., shopping center. The assassination attempt left him with both legs paralyzed.

They are now pushed out of the nest. Meantime, these baby birds are still looking to their mother, chirping for their food. She'll get it for them. But when the time comes to let them go, she will know it instinctively.

Human mothers are not always so wise. It is hard to see your children go out to face the world on their own. Sometimes your instinct is to keep them in the nest.

You have to let your children go. But will they go with a firm sense of values, level hearts and heads, knowledge of the meaning of faith?

Where to find all this? Try your church!

State Drops In Per Capital Income

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's per capita income has fallen below the average for the nation, the Columbus-based Ohio Public Expenditure Council reports.

It said the annual per person income average in 1965 was $2,890 or 3.8 per cent above the national average. In 1975, it has grown to $5,810, but was 1.6 below the national average of $5,902.

Among all states, Ohio slipped from 15th to 22nd.

The expenditure council, a nonprofit, nonpartisan organization financed through contributions, had other dubious information about Ohio in this week's edition of the publication "Tax Facts."

It noted that the state is falling behind, in percentage, in its share of federal aid to state and local governments.

The council said Ohio and its subdivisions got only 3.7 per cent of all such federal aid in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1976, compared to 4.4 per cent in the corresponding period ending in June 1966.

One major reason is that in order to receive federal funds, states and local governments have to come up with a certain amount of matching local dollars.

"Citizens and taxpayers should be aware of the costs involved in attempting to secure federal aid monies..." the council advised.

House members thought they were in for a lecture for sure when conservative Rep. Gene Damschroder, R-85 Fremont, was recognized to speak in a debate over lawmaker salaries and fringe benefits.

Damschroder is the House member who received national publicity earlier this year when he gave the state his personal check for $7,000—representing the first two years of a $3,500-a-year pay hike the lawmakers voted themselves two years ago.

Being debated in the House was a legislative budget for 1977-1979 which represented a 37 per cent increase for the House and a boost of 30 per cent for the Senate.

To that point, most of the speakers had cited increasing demands on lawmakers, the switch to annual sessions a few years back, the higher price of staff help, among other reasons for the hike.

"We're getting so valuable around here," said Damschroder as his colleagues winced, "Mr. Speaker, I was wondering if you could figure out a way to get my $7,000 back." The House roared with laughter.

Sen. Robert D. Freeman, D-29 Canton, is asking the federal government to issue a postage stamp commemorating the 175th anniversary of Ohio Statehood. Congress recognizes the milestone as March 1, 1978.

He suggests it be called "Super Seasquid" because the full Latin name—centesimus septuagintimus quintus—is too hard to remember.

Freeman also is calling upon fellow lawmakers, along with historical societies around the state, to determine what occasions should be celebrated.

LOOSE COW — Livestock workers corralled a loose cow about 2:30 p.m. Wednesday at Scioto and Ohio Sts. The belligerent animal put up quite a fuss, according to witnesses, who were chased from porch to porch until the workers formed a ring at the intersection. Pickaway County Humane Officers and Ptl. Jim Ford of the Circleville Police Department were also on hand.

Factory Foreman Wins Ohio Lottery

CLEVELAND (AP) — Columbus factory foreman Alva Walker, who won $140,000 in the Ohio lottery Thursday night, says he's going to "build a white picket fence around my little world."

The little world where Walker, 43, and his wife, Helen, live centers on their "ranch-style house on a postage-stamp lot" in Grove City.

They have three children, and Walker, who has worked at the Fisher Body plant for 22½ years, said he loves to "get out in the yard and fool around."

He also likes to golf and bowl and said he has no plans to retire.

Walker brought a cheering section of about 15 persons with him Thursday night, including bar manager Mike Toner, who sold him his winning ticket.

"Every week since the lottery started, Mike has saved me the first two tickets off one of his rolls," Walker said.

Walker wore a key chain as a good luck charm. He said the charm, containing a glass of mustard seeds, was given to him Tuesday night by rivet operator LuAnn Thompson. He said he'd wear it again next week when he gets to come back for another try at the Pot O'Gold and up to $250,000 in prizes.

This week's defending champ, Arthur Reichman of Dover, won $10,000 to add to the $115,000 he took home in two previous appearances.

Paul Amrhein of Wheeling, W. Va. won $50,000 in the TV Bonus drawing for losers in the instant game.

The second prize of $10,000 in the drawing for persons sending in four losing tickets from the instant game went to M. Nieman of Cincinnati. Robert Diliberto of Independence won the $5,000 third prize in the TV bonus drawing.

Other Pot O'Gold winners included Becky Stamm of Toledo, $8,200; Junior Burga of North Canton, $9,400; James Palmer of Massillon $6,000, and Ed Spinks Jr. of Zanesville, $7,100.

'La Pasionaria'

Returns To Spain

MOSCOW (AP) — Dolores Ibarruri, the Spanish Communist party's "La Pasionaria," has picked up her Spanish passport and is expected to return to her homeland for the first time since the Spanish civil war.

Spain's embassy here confirmed on Thursday that the 82-year-old Mrs. Ibarruri had been given the passport but officials of Spain's Communist party here declined to say when she would return.

Mrs. Ibarruri fled to Moscow in 1939.

Gasoline Tax Increase Urged

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Indiana Farm Bureau wants Indiana legislators to approve a state gasoline tax increase of two cents a gallon during their special session which begins May 23.

Holly P. Moon, the group's legislative director, wants the additional revenue to be used for road maintenance.

The regular session of the legislature adjourned April 30 without passing a gasoline tax increase. Gov. Otis R. Bowen had recommended a three cent a gallon increase, but Democrats would not agree on the size of the increase. An effort by conferees to settle the issue was unsuccessful and bills to raise the tax died with the adjournment.

Domestic fuel consumption is expected to leap from 8.9 billion gallons in 1976 to 15.6 billion in 1988, says a recent report by the Federal Aviation Administration.

Catch up with level billing

No one needs to remind you how cold it was this past winter. In fact, it was the coldest winter Ohio has experienced in the last 100 years.

Colder temperatures mean higher gas and electric bills. DP&L recognizes this, and we are offering a six-month Level Billing plan to help ease the impact for those customers who are behind in their utility bills.

Here's how it works: Your unpaid balance will be... spread over a period of six months. The amount currently owing and your anticipated billing through October will be divided by six beginning with your May bill.

To get started... just pay the amount listed on your statement for "Level Bill." This will automatically put you on the road to being caught up on your gas and electric bill by October.

Remember... participation in Level Billing protects your credit rating and prevents further collection action. Also, this plan is offered at no cost to you. You still pay only for the service you use.

Over 78 percent of our customers have already enjoyed the convenience of Level Billing.

Check your May bill for further details!

Laurelville News

Anthony DeLong Neff was born April 30th in Berger Hospital. The proud parents are Steve and Sharon (DeLong) Neff of Route 1, Laurelville. Mr. and Mrs. Dan DeLong Sr. of Route 2, are the maternal grandparents. The new arrival has a three year old brother, Jeremy.

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Shaw (Cheryl Swackhammer) are parents of a daughter, Erin Elizabeth, born in Lancaster-Fairfield Hospital Friday, May 6th. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Earl Swackhammer of Route 2, Laurelville and Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Shaw of South Bloomingville. Erin has a small brother Christopher.

The ladies of the Church of God held their mother-daughter banquet at the church on last Thursday evening, May 5th. Mrs. Dee Hartley was in charge of the banquet and program. For the buffet supper, the guests were seated at long tables beautifully decorated in white and yellow. Favors were tiny containers filled with yellow mums. Each member introduced the guests she had brought, daughters, mother and-or friends. Mrs. Josephine Hardman gave the prayer preceding the dinner. Mrs. Vonnice Moccabee gave the devotions to open the program. Miss Monica Welliver read "Mormism." A reading "What is a Mother" was given by Tracy Hartley. Mrs. Marilyn Stump sang "Mother." She was accompanied at the piano by her mother-in-law, Mrs. Norma Jean Stump. Chelsta Hoy, a guest of Mrs. Margie Ebert, read "When God Created Mothers." The door prize, a flower arrangement, was won by Beth Smith. Following the program, a brief business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Lennie Hardman. The closing prayer was given by Mrs. Bernice Anderson.

The mother-daughter meeting of the Trinity United Methodist Church was also held on last Thursday evening, May 5th. Invited guests were ladies from the Laurel Hills, Haynes, Adelphi, Whisler, Tarlton U.M., Pleasant Ridge, South Perry and both Hallsville churches. However, not all of these churches were represented. Program numbers included a vocal trio by Maribelle Higgins, Mrs. Virginia Stinard and Barbara Blum; vocal solo by Mrs. Higgins; two readings pertaining to Mothers Day by Mrs. Evelyn Ayers. The special speaker for the evening was Mrs. Eloise Purdy of Circleville who spoke on her life as a child in the Philippines where her parents were Missionaries, and where for some time they were in a concentration camp. Hostesses were Mrs. Thelma Hinton, Mrs. Grace Dumm, Mrs. Mildred Armstrong, Mrs. Debbie Dumm and Mrs. Barbara Blum.

The Laurelville Senior Citizens enjoyed a carry-in dinner and meeting at the Trinity U.M. Church on Monday evening, May 9th. In the absence of both the president and vice president, Mrs. Ruth Reynolds conducted the business meeting. For the program, readings were given by Mrs. Ethel Poling, Mrs. Lloyd McNeal, Mrs. Golda Paxton and Frances McClelland. A vocal solo by Mrs. Annabelle Moats and a piano solo "How Great Thou Art," by Kathryn Whisler. The group sang several familiar hymns. If the weatherman will cooperate, the next meeting will be held at the Laurelville Park shelter house, on Monday evening, June 13th. We were glad to have some new members and four guests. From Logan were Freda Kuhn, Marie Jewell, Howard Earnhart and David Roberts.

Mrs. Billie (Margarite) Riddle would like to thank her friends and family for their cards flowers and prayers during her recent hospital stay and recuperation.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd McNeal of Rt. 1, recently flew to Texas where they spent a week. They visited their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Wolfe of Wichita Falls. Tom is stationed at the Shepherd Air Force Base where he is training in the field of electronics. They also visited Fort Wallace, formerly Camp Wallace, where Lloyd took his army training 32 years ago. They enjoyed seeing the John F. Kennedy Memorial and also visited the Museum at Fort Sill, Okla.

Mrs. Bessie Fetherolf was very surprised last week to receive a letter from State Senator Oakley Collins and a letter of congratulations from the Ohio State Senate on her recent 90th birthday. The letter from the senate bears the gold seal of the Lieutenant Governor and is signed by Richard F. Celeste, Lt. Governor, and Oakley Collins, Senator of the 17th senatorial district.

Mrs. Margaret Johnson entered Riverside Hospital, Columbus, on Monday where she will undergo hip surgery. Her room number is 6026.

Mrs. Bernadine Bainter was guest of her daughter and son-in-law, Don and Jean Gatwood and their daughter Donna Jean of Circleville, recently, for Mother's Day. They enjoyed dinner at the SAN-DAR Smorgasbord Restaurant at Belleville, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Royce Woolever of Ashville visited last Sunday afternoon with their aunt, Mrs. Eunice Goodman.

Denny Drum of near Gibsonville is a medical patient in Hocking Valley Hospital at Logan, O.

Mother's Day guests of Mrs. Frieda Robinson included her sister-in-law, Mrs. Berman Lively of Columbus, and all of her children. Commissioning Service Set At 1st CCCU

A Commissioning Service for Miss Elsie Conley will be held at the First Church of Christ in Christian Union, 436 East Ohio Street during the Sunday morning service.

Miss Conley serves with the Churches of Christ in Christian Union, with headquarters in Circleville. Before ministering in New Guinea, she served on the island of Dominica in the West Indies for six years.

Missionary interest was kindled in her early teens when she heard a missionary to China speak. Following graduation from high school in her native state of Kentucky, Miss Conley studied at Teachers' College in Pippassee, Kentucky for two years. While there her interest in foreign missions was rekindled. A few weeks after completing junior college work, she sensed a definite call of God to become a missionary. In further preparation for the mission field, Miss Conley studied Bible at Circleville Bible College, graduating with a B.S.L. degree in 1959.

Her missionary service began in Dominica in September, 1965. She pastored a church at Fond St. Jean, engaged in child and youth evangelism, and taught part time at the Bible School. She ministered in Dominica until September, 1965.

In December 1966, Miss Conley transferred to the field of New Guinea. During her term she taught in the primary and pidgin literary schools, and also helped in the medical work.

Upon returning to the states for furlough, she attended Cedarville College in Ohio to further her teachers training in elementary education.

She returned to New Guinea in August, 1972, and was situated at the Parata outstation. She supervised the

In the 7:30 p.m. service the topic will be "Life Hanging in Doubt." A singing group from Circleville known as the Jubilations will be singing several numbers during the Evening service.

The Jefferson Church of Christ in Christian Union will observe Senior Citizens day on Sunday, with the choir being filled with senior citizens, and Mr. Glen Smith as the director. Pastor Heimbach will be preaching in biblicals and the featured singers will be Cartwright & Peifer from Chillicothe.

Calvary United Methodist Church will be having a lay witness mission this weekend, starting with a carry-in meal today at 6:30. Saturday morning coffee hours at 10 at various homes, services Saturday evening and Sunday morning. Seventeen lay people will be coming to share their faith for this weekend mission. The Rev. Eugene Purdy urges all children, youth, and adults to take part.

A Missionary Day will be observed work in that area, ministering to adults, young people and children on the station and those in Paroma Government School. She also assisted in infant and maternal welfare.

While on Furlough, Miss Conley has been sharing her burden for the people of Papua, New Guinea. After a brief visit with her family, she plans to leave the states on June 25, to return to New Guinea where she will be teaching and supervising in the school.

Frostbite Kills Nixon Cypress

CINCINNATI (AP) — Frostbite has killed a tree planted in honor of former President Richard Nixon, says the director of Cincinnati's city parks.

The 20-year-old tree, a bald cypress planted after the 1968 election, has three frost cracks from the severe winter and was pronounced dead Thursday, parks director Fred Payne said.

The tree is part of the President's Grove, which was established at Eden Park in 1882. Nixon requested it be a cypress, according to Payne's office.

They are now pushed out of the nest. Meantime, these baby birds are still looking to their mother, chirping for their food. She'll get it for them. But when the time comes to let them go, she will know it instinctively.

Human mothers are not always so wise. It is hard to see your children go out to face the world on their own. Sometimes your instinct is to keep them in the nest.

You have to let your children go. But will they go with a firm sense of values, level hearts and heads, knowledge of the meaning of faith?

Where to find all this? Try your church!

BIG FELLOW — Pictured above is one of the two DuPont Company planes that flew into Pickaway County Airport Thursday for the day. The planes were Beechcraft Kingairs. Airport Manager Beverly Dahl stated that local industry makes regular use of the airport, and the airport has, on the whole, a regular steady flow of traffic. "Not very many people realize the potential of the airport, or the many uses that can be made of it," she stated.

Veterans Memorial Airport News

By BEV DAHL

Last week I told you about the planes based here. Now I want to tell you about the man who keeps them flying. He's an A-1 mechanic and the best in the business. His name is Warren Harmon and if he said a bucket would fly, I'd get in and try it.

We've accused him of signing off the Wright Brothers flight, but he says, "No". The day they flew, he was in Proctorville, Ohio on the Ohio River, watching while somebody tied one end of a rope to a barge and the other end to a tavern. When that barge pulled out into the river the next morning, it pulled the tavern off its foundation, down the bank and into the Ohio River. He swears it's true and he didn't do it.

Back a few years ago, Warren had a grass strip north of town. Publicly it was known as Elsea Airport, but privately, to the people who flew in and out of there, it was "Harmon's Hazard". Completely surrounded by trees and wires, it had a very convenient cemetery at one end.

Now, I've learned two very important things from Warren. No. 1, if you see you are going to fly into wires, go nose first. Theoretically, the prop will cut the wires and give you room enough for the rest of the plane to get through. He didn't tell me what the electric company thinks about this.

No. 2, when you are flying a B-17, as most of us do every little whipstitch, and you lose an engine, you better believe you're going to lose some altitude. I think that's an understatement.

The South Bloomfield Village Council wishes to thank all residents of South Bloomfield for their participation in the clean-up campaign.

Members of several organizations worked in areas throughout the County. Della Wertman and her Sew Straight Teenettes worked on the hospital grounds; Jean Pontius and the Little Critter Keepers worked in the Wayne Township area; Diane Sutton and the Happy Helpers worked in the Nicholas Drive area and Nicholas Drive School.

Jan Barnes and the Monroe Creators and Conservors worked in the Westfall Dunkle Road; The Honey Bees of Perry Township worked in the Perry Township area; Mrs. Hardman and the Charcolettes worked cleaning-up in the Tarlton area; Mrs. Curry reported that 20 Girl Scout and Brownie Troops worked in the Washington, Laurelville and Circleville areas; Art Gifford reported that his 4-H group cleaned up Route 361 and the Green Thumbs were working on the parking lot on Franklin Street.

The Circleville Area Chamber thanks these groups and everyone who has helped in the Operation Wipe-Out Campaign. Pickaway County looks much better!

Rick Barnes Speaks To VFY Group

Rick Barnes, Drug Treatment Specialist of the substance abuse program for the Scioto Paint Valley Mental Health Clinic and its Pickaway County satellite, spoke to members of Pickaway County Volunteers for Youth in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Edman Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

Barnes told the group the main objectives of his program are to educate the general public about substance abuse and to consult with persons seeking help for substance related problems, defining substances to include alcohol and drugs.

In his role as counselor, Barnes stressed the need to maintain strict confidentiality, a warm and receptive atmosphere, and a non-judgmental attitude. He cautioned volunteers who wish to work effectively with drug-using probationers to neither condemn nor condone their habits and to explore the myths as well as the facts surrounding substance abuse to avoid over-reacting.

Barnes noted that "use" and "misuse" in regard to drugs are very subjective terms since drugs have different effects on different people. He pointed out that all drugs have valid medicinal purposes, including LSD which has been found to be beneficial in helping terminal cancer patients face death.

Although he has made some presentations to local school children, Barnes expressed a desire to do a great deal more within the local schools, especially in the area of values clarification.

He discredits the old "scare tactics" approach as being not only ineffectual, but harmful, stating that "While I would like people to exercise caution with drugs, I don't want kids to be afraid of drugs because that implies the drugs are more powerful than we are."

A native of Ross County, Barnes began his work in the Circleville area in January and has worked in similar capacities in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

In regard to educating young people about substance abuse, he believes that "It is more than good to have counseling in the schools - it is essential."

In addition to the Edmans, others present to hear Barnes speak were Diane Berger, LeMoine VanVliet, Phyllis Meena, Jim Whitten, Sam and Nanci Dettra and Marsha Schneider.

Israel Wins Victory In Political Arena

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israel and its congressional supporters have won a significant victory over the State Department with President Carter's decision to grant the Jewish state special treatment on weapons aid.

Carter signaled the Israeli accomplishment when he disclosed at a Thursday news conference that the Jerusalem government would be given high priority in obtaining new U.S. weapons and military technology and the right to co-produce some American-designed armaments.

Carter's announcement came just two hours after he and a group of senators who support Israel worked out an agreement to grant Israel special treatment. The senators agreed in exchange to shelve an amendment aimed at giving lawmakers the power to circumvent Carter's arms policy.

Thursday's events capped an all-out lobbying battle between the State Department and the Israeli embassy and its backers. The department wanted to exclude Israel from a category of preferred nations that receive priority consideration in arms matters.

Led by Undersecretary of State Lucy Wilson Benson, department lobbyists argued that including Israel in that category would upset the Arabs at a sensitive point of Middle East negotiations.

They also argued that the United States needed to adopt an "even-handed" policy toward the Middle East antagonists.

The Israelis fought back, seeing these positions as an attempt by pro-Arabists in the administration to weaken the Jerusalem government so it could not oppose an American imposed Middle East settlement.

A concerted effort by Israeli Ambassador Simcha Dinitz, the Israeli lobby and congressional supporters produced two amendments to legislation calling on the United States to live up to commitments by the Gerald R. Ford administration to provide Israel new weapons, technology and rights to co-produce some armaments from U.S. plans.

Y Building Fund Campaign Has $477,000

FIRST FLOOR PLAN OF PROPOSED PICKAWAY COUNTY FAMILY YMCA

This is the final plan of the first floor of the new YMCA. The campaign to raise money to build this facility now stands at $477,000 with $26,000 pledged last week.

The building committee urges everyone who has considered contributing to the campaign to do so now in order to help start construction as soon as possible.

The floor plan consists of a 100-foot x 200-foot main structure with an added 55-foot x 87-foot front section. An additional 58-foot x 100-foot second floor is over the locker room area. The entrance is sloped without stairs to provide easy access for wheelchairs and the entire first floor is on the same level to facilitate movement of wheelchairs once inside.

The building is designed so one person can control access to the locker room, pool and gymnasium areas, and have a clear view of everyone entering the building. They also can monitor the vending machine and public restroom area. The all purpose room will handle courses, club meetings, and bridge groups and has an attached kitchenette for preparing light refreshments. The conference room provides space for

Staff and Board Meetings for the many community organizations using the Y.

The natatorium contains a 75-foot x 45-foot pool designed to serve recreational and instructional programs. It has six full lanes for competitive swimming and is sized to be an official short course pool. The 70-foot x 100-foot gymnasium provides more than twice the floor space available in the armory gym.

New physical testing facilities for the Y's physical fitness programs and new exercise and weight rooms are located alongside the gym next to the program directors office. The locker rooms provide access to just the pool or gym, or to both facilities.

There are stairs to the large area over the locker rooms. This will be used as a social room for large groups and has sufficient ceiling height to handle gymnastic classes.

Veterans Questions Answered

EDITOR'S NOTE: Each week the Circleville Herald will publish a series of questions and answers of interest to veterans. These questions are some of the many presented to James P. Shea, Pickaway County Veterans Service Officer. Any veteran desiring further information on any questions presented in this column, or having any questions concerning the benefits of the Veterans Administration should contact the Veterans Service Office at 219 South Court Street.

(Q.) Can a portion of a veteran's check be paid separate to the members of the veteran's family?

(A.) Yes Apportionment can be given to the family of a veteran if it does not cause undue hardship on the veteran. Each case is judged on its own merits.

(Q.) Does a person have the right to denounce his compensation?

(A.) Yes, but this does not bar the veteran from reapplying for the denounced benefits at a later date.

(Q.) Can service-connected payments be cut off after they have been in force for a period of ten years or more?

(A.) Yes. If fraud can be proven in the original application for the existing benefits.

(Q.) Are former P.O.W.'s given special consideration for a claim for service-connected disabilities?

(A.) Yes. If the disability is caused by a vitamin deficiency or is psychotic based, both of which should be diagnosed within one year after separation from active duty.

(Q.) If a veteran receives a lump sum payment (severance pay) can he qualify for VA compensation?

(A.) Yes. If after the degree of disability has been established and the monthly payment has been set forth, the total number of checks added up, come up with the lump sum payments. After this figure is reached the veteran is then entitled to a monthly payment from the VA.

Buckeye Trail Walk Extends 700 Miles

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Taking a walk along the Buckeye Trail can be a mighty long trip. Actually, it can be about 700 miles right now. Next year, who knows?

"The trail was started in 1959 when about a half dozen of us decided there ought to be a trail from the lake to the river," said Bob Paton, executive director of the Buckeye Trail Association. That was accomplished by 1964. The trail ran from Mentor to near Cincinnati. "Then we thought there should be a trail from Cincinnati to Toledo. There are some gaps yet, but we're making good progress," Paton said. "We really are awfully close to that dream of going clear around the state with a hiking trail."

The trail is maintained by the Buckeye Trail Association of Worthington. Members worked out the route, which crosses private property as well as public lands.

"In Ohio, a state which is primarily privately owned, an agricultural state, we don't have the mountain terrain (of an Appalachian Trail — which extends from Georgia to Mt. Katahdin in Maine)," Paton said. "We do have lots of parks and state forests...and we use those. We have a lot of the trail through industrial lands, such as Ohio Power Co. property, strip mined areas, abandoned canals, old railroads, quite a lot of private lands where we have been given permission to cross."

The trail is marked with blue painted blazes on trees or poles, a single blaze the customary mark with two blazes — one above the other — before a turn and a single one immediately beyond.

There are about 1,100 members of the Buckeye Trail Association, representing almost every county in Ohio as well as 25 states. "Why anyone from California, New Mexico and Maine would be interested in the Buckeye Trail I can't tell you," Paton said, "but they are."

Aspiring Opera Stars Now Have U.S. Stop

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — If you're an aspiring actor you go to New York or Hollywood. If you want to paint you might rent a studio in Greenwich Village and start by selling canvases on the street. But where do you go if you want to sing opera?

Traditionally Europe, but the San Francisco Opera and Affiliate Artists, Inc., of New York hope to change that.

The opera and Affiliate Artists, supported by grants from the National Endowment for the Arts and six corporations, have begun a program to give aspiring opera singers another choice.

The project is directed at young singers who have completed their training and are looking for steady work, said Richard C. Clark, president of Affiliate Artists. Too often, he said, such work was available only in Europe, with its longer tradition of opera.

Clark and Kurt Herbert Adler, general director of the San Francisco Opera, said six young singers have been hired to work for a year with the San Francisco company.

They will be paid $15,000 each for a 48-week commitment, Clark said, and will appear in productions by the opera's affiliated companies — Spring Opera Theater, Western Opera Theater, Brown Bag Opera, and Merola Opera Program.

All the affiliated companies employ young artists on a part-time, jobber basis; the difference in the new program, Adler explained, is that the six selected singers will remain with the company for most of a year.

"It's been frustrating to us," Adler said. "We have young American artists here. We get acquainted with them, but we're unable to develop them further."

Frustrating, too, for the young artist, Clark said, who must face the "agonizing question: what do I do next?"

"The life of a peripatetic jobber, after a certain age, is hard to confront as a lifestyle," he added.

"And it's extraordinarily difficult for me to bite the bullet and say to these young people, 'Have you tried Germany?' We ought to be able to do better in America."

Clark said the six also would spend 40 days each as an artist-in-residence in a community selected by their sponsoring corporations.

Starting this afternoon at 3 p.m. all area track fans are in for a real treat when the Central District Class AA-A South Sectional Track Meet gets underway at Circleville High School's all-weather facilities.

The best high school athletes in the Central District will be performing and it's almost a sure bet that you'll get a chance to see some of this years state champions in action.

The weatherman is promising nice weather today and tomorrow—Circleville's track facilities are among the finest in the state—and the action will be first class.

Things will get underway 3 p.m. today with some finals in the field events and preliminaries in the running events.

Action will resume 11 a.m. Saturday with finals in the field events and semi finals in some running events.

The finals in the running events will start at 1:30 p.m. with the first six in each event advancing to District action.

Circleville athletic director Larry Cook will be the meet manager so you can bet your bottom dollar that these events will start on time and you won't be sitting around waiting for something to happen.

This guy is so "organized" that the Hammond people call him before they put a new instrument on the market. He is also a con man of the first water when it comes to getting free hot dogs or fish sandwiches from a kind and generous sports editor.

Class A team who will be in the meet are: Amanda-Clearcreek, Liberty Union, Canal Winchester, Columbus Academy, Lancaster Fisher Catholic, Millersport, Berne Union, Licking Heights, West Jefferson, New Albany and Newark Catholic.

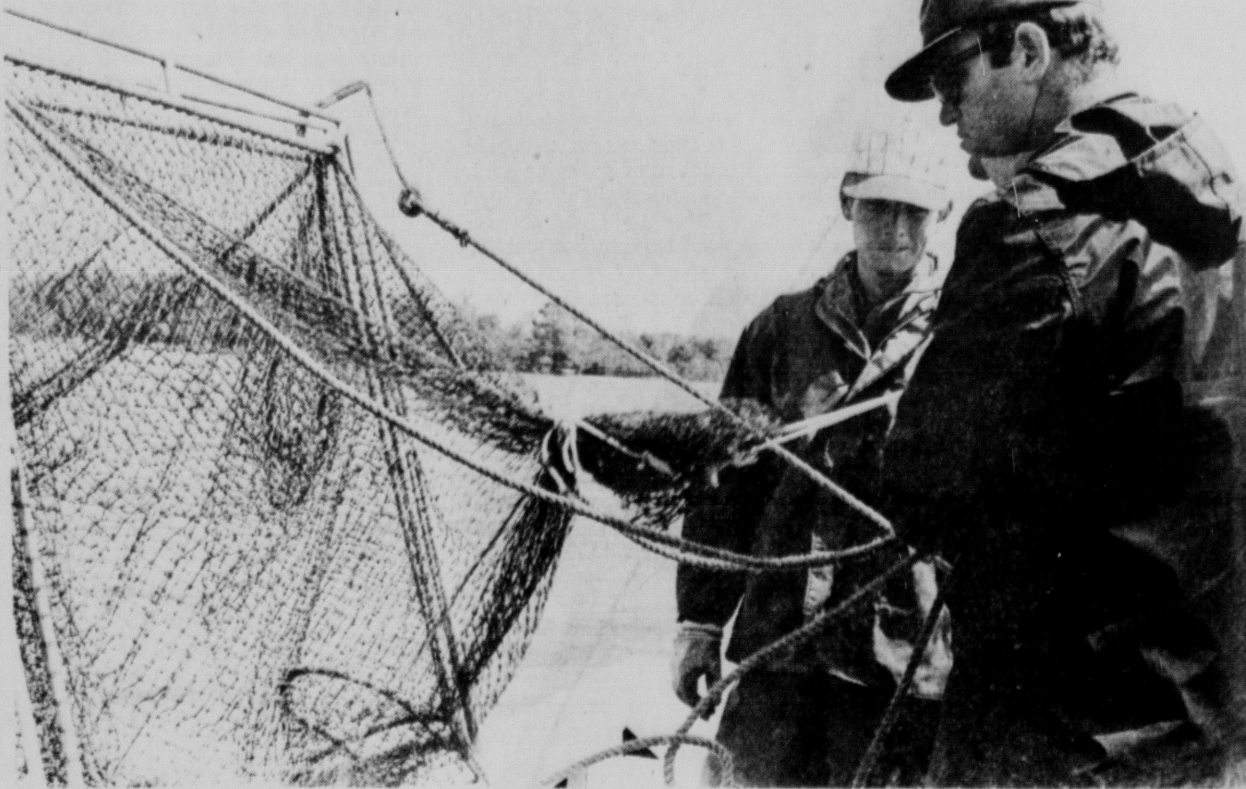

Making the scene for the Class AA schools will be: Teays Valley, Bloom Carroll, Circleville, Logan Elm, Bexley, Bishop Hartley, Bishop Ready, Briggs Hamilton Twp., Independence, Mohawk, St. Charles, Wehrle, Fairfield Union, London, Madison Plains, Watkins Memorial, Pickerington, Westfall and Lakewood.

Its a great array of talent — The Circleville Athletic Boosters will have their refreshment booth open with food and drink — And there is a nice seat waiting for one and all in the bleachers—So let's all turn out and make it a great day all around.

Our "Fearless" forecast—Texans love Texas and Ben Crenshaw will prove it in the Colonial National Invitational.

Until next time, have a nice day-be a good sport.

Hargus Has Quality Fish

NET TRAPS — ODNr workers Chip Gross and Dan Winters prepare to lower their fish net trap into Hargus Lake to conduct a population survey of fish. The survey turned up some quality fish, rather than a large quantity.

By DAVE AMEY
Herald City Editor

Anglers who wet their lines in Hargus Lake will find quality rather than quantity fish, according to Ron Schaefer of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, Division of Wildlife's District One Fish Management Section.

Net catches for a 20-year period averaged 3.51 fish per hour, he said, and fish caught by anglers were generally of desirable size.

To substantiate his claim, ODNr workers captured five muskellunge including one that measured 40 inches in length and tipped the scales at 20 pounds, and an 18½-inch largemouth bass in an all-night net.

The netting is part of ODNr's Adult Fish Population Survey, one of five surveys conducted yearly at the lake to determine the extent of required stocking.

The workers, led by crew chief Dan Winters and made up of Chip Gross and Wayne Shaw, laid two test nets in the lake Monday and returned Tuesday and Wednesday to make their findings.

One net was laid off the point to the north of the dam and the other was laid in an inlet north of the beach area.

Tuesday's catch netted the five muskies between 29 and 40 inches in length, about 60 bluegill between 3½ and 6½ inches, a 14-inch channel catfish, about 60 black and white crappies between six and eight inches, and about 120 bullhead catfish from 7½ to 13½ inches.

As a result of the survey, workers expect to continue stocking yearling largemouth bass at 10 per cent and fingerling muskellunge at two per acre.

Continued surveys will also be conducted.

Hargus Lake, located in the A.W. Marion State Park, consists of about 146 surface acres. Impounding Hargus Creek, a part of the Scioto River Watershed, the dam was originally constructed during 1947-48, but due to hydraulic problems requiring dam repairs, reconstruction and improvements to the spillway and gate valve, its waters were not fully impounded until May of 1957.

The lake is owned and operated by the Division of Parks and Recreation. Fishing, hiking, picnicing, boating, sightseeing, and limited upland game and waterfowl hunting are associated recreational uses of Hargus Lake.

Annual attendance at the state park is about 400,000 persons.

Principal fishes of the lake include black and white crappies, bluegills, bullheads, largemouth bass, muskellunge, rainbow trout, and channel catfish. Rough and forage species include gizzard shad, common white suckers, golden shiners, carp, and redear suckers.

The rainbow trout were not stocked as part of the two-story fishery, but were requested for locally sponsored fish derbies.

Management practices at the lake have included the construction of fish attractors, population and limnological surveys, and stocking efforts.

Stumps and brushpiles were left on the lake bottom during initial construction, and numerous fallen trees were added in 1966-1967 to increase success for shore fishermen.

The lake has been stocked annually since 1956, with the exception of 1962.

Species other than those prevalent are golden trout, redear sunfish, walleye, bluntnose minnows, and tadpoles.

Catches of panfish and shad continue to dominate much of the fishing in the lake, according to Schaefer. Previous stocking of yearling largemouth bass have apparently had little effect on the panfish population, he said.

Israel Wins Victory In Political Arena

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israel and its congressional supporters have won a significant victory over the State Department with President Carter's decision to grant the Jewish state special treatment on weapons aid.

Carter signaled the Israeli accomplishment when he disclosed at a Thursday news conference that the Jerusalem government would be given high priority in obtaining new U.S. weapons and military technology and the right to co-produce some American-designed armaments.

Carter's announcement came just two hours after he and a group of senators who support Israel worked out an agreement to grant Israel special treatment. The senators agreed in exchange to shelve an amendment aimed at giving lawmakers the power to circumvent Carter's arms policy.

Thursday's events capped an all-out lobbying battle between the State Department and the Israeli embassy and its backers. The department wanted to exclude Israel from a category of preferred nations that receive priority consideration in arms matters.

Led by Undersecretary of State Lucy Wilson Benson, department lobbyists argued that including Israel in that category would upset the Arabs at a sensitive point of Middle East negotiations.

They also argued that the United States needed to adopt an "even-handed" policy toward the Middle East antagonists.

The Israelis fought back, seeing these positions as an attempt by pro-Arabists in the administration to weaken the Jerusalem government so it could not oppose an American imposed Middle East settlement.

A concerted effort by Israeli Ambassador Simcha Dinitz, the Israeli lobby and congressional supporters produced two amendments to legislation calling on the United States to live up to commitments by the Gerald R. Ford administration to provide Israel new weapons, technology and rights to co-produce some armaments from U.S. plans.

Rick Barnes Speaks To VFY Group

Rick Barnes, Drug Treatment Specialist in the substance abuse program for the Scioto Paint Valley Mental Health Clinic and its Pickaway County satellite, spoke to members of Pickaway County Volunteers for Youth in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Edman Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

Barnes told the group the main objectives of his program are to educate the general public about substance abuse and to consult with persons seeking help for substance related problems, defining substances to include alcohol and drugs.

In his role as counselor, Barnes stressed the need to maintain strict confidentiality, a warm and receptive atmosphere, and a non-judgmental attitude. He cautioned volunteers who wish to work effectively with drug-using probationers to neither condemn nor condone their habits and to explore the myths as well as the facts surrounding substance abuse to avoid over-reacting.

Barnes noted that "use" and "misuse" in regard to drugs are very subjective terms since drugs have different effects on different people. He pointed out that all drugs have valid medicinal purposes, including LSD which has been found to be beneficial in helping terminal cancer patients face death.

Although he has made some presentations to local school children, Barnes expressed a desire to do a great deal more within the local schools, especially in the area of values clarification.

He discredits the old "scare tactics" approach as being not only ineffectual, but harmful, stating that "While I would like people to exercise caution with drugs, I don't want kids to be afraid of drugs because that implies the drugs are more powerful than we are."

A native of Ross County, Barnes began his work in the Circleville area in January and has worked in similar capacities in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

In regard to educating young people about substance abuse, he believes that "It is more than good to have counseling in the schools - it is essential."

In addition to the Edmans, others present to hear Barnes speak were Diane Berger, LeMoine VanVliet, Phyllis Meena, Jim Whitten, Sam and Nanci Dettra and Marsha Schneider.

Mariners Stun Yankees, 5-2

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

It was difficult to tell which was the expansion team as the Seattle Mariners recorded their first-ever series sweep Thursday night ... over the New York Yankees, no less.

"We just played bad and they played well," Yankees Manager Billy Martin explained after his defending American League champions fumbled their way through an 8-6 defeat at the hands of the 35-game-old Mariners on the heels of a 5-2 setback Wednesday night.

In the only other AL games, the Texas Rangers blanked the Kansas City Royals 2-0, the California Angels overtook the Baltimore Orioles 7-5 and the Detroit Tigers swamped the Milwaukee Brewers 9-1.

The Yankees committed five errors — five more than the Mariners — including three on consecutive ground balls in the third inning, and handed Seattle six unearned runs while the expansionists ran the bases daringly, stealing three bases.

In the first inning, Seattle's Dan Meyer and Bill Stein hit consecutive balls off Catfish Hunter into the stands. The hits were called home runs and, coming in the wake of a two-out error by third baseman Graig Nettles, gave the Mariners a 3-1 lead.

A throwing error by catcher Thurman Munson helped set up a Seattle run in the second. In the third Ron Guidry relieved Hunter with one out, runners on first and second and the Mariners ahead 5-2.

Guidry could only watch helplessly as first baseman Chris Chambliss,

Eric Graves and Dean Gloyd shared mound duties for the Blue and Gold and gave up a total of 11 hits, six walks and fanned seven.

Spears and Ruggles were on the hill for the Falcons as they gave up a total of nine hits, five walks and struck out five.

second baseman Willie Randolph and Chambliss again took turns muffing three straight ground balls which easily could have gotten the Yankees out of the inning but resulted instead in three more Seattle runs.

Rangers 2, Royals 0

Gaylord Perry ended a personal four-game losing streak with a four-hitter. The two teams, who fought a 20-minute brawl Saturday night at Texas, showed no inclination to renewed violence. The Rangers nicked Dennis Leonard for a run in the first inning on singles by Bert Campaneris, Willie Horton and Dave May. Jim Sundberg led off the fourth with an infield hit, took second on a wild pitch and scored on Claudell Washington's double.

Angels 7, Orioles 5

Bobby Grich's two-run single capped a five-run eighth-inning rally. Jim Palmer took a 5-2 lead into the eighth but walked Dan Briggs, the first batter. After Gil Flores singled and was forced at second, consecutive singles by Dave Chalk and Joe Rudi made the score 5-4 and chased Palmer.

Bobby Bonds, who had a solo home run, another single and scored three times, greeted Fred Holdsworth with a gametying single and the runners moved up on an error by centerfielder Larry Harlow. Grich then delivered his two-run single.

Tigers 9, Brewers 1

Solo homers by Ron LeFlore and Steve Kemp backed unbeaten, rookie Dave Rozema's five-hit pitching. LeFlore, Jason Thompson and Mark Wagner knocked in two runs apiece. The victory was especially sweet for Rozema, 3-0, who beat the Brewers with a sevenhitter last Saturday, then heard Milwaukee Manager Alex Grammas say, "He's got about as little a fast ball as there is in the league."

Liranzo, a centerfielder, led off the bottom half of the first inning with a four-baser. Tony Chevez scored his third win of the season against three defeats.

No Fidrych Start Before May 27

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Mark "The Bird" Fidrych, still recovering from a knee operation, won't make his first start of the season until at least May 27, Detroit Tigers manager Ralph Houk announced Thursday.

Houk still has not set the exact date for Fidrych's belated pitching debut this season. But contrary to earlier speculation the Bird won't pitch against the California Angels on May 24 or May 25. Houk says the earliest Fidrych would pitch would be May 27 when Seattle comes to Detroit. There will be games on May 28 and 29 also.

Fidrych will do some pitching in the exhibition game in Cincinnati next Thursday, but Houk said he wants his star to be ready to pitch a complete game.

Willie's Dillies

By BILL MCGAFFNEY
Herald Sports Editor

Starting this afternoon at 3 p.m. all area track fans are in for a real treat when the Central District Class AA-A South Sectional Track Meet gets underway at Circleville High School's all-weather facilities.

The best high school athletes in the Central District will be performing and it's almost a sure bet that you'll get a chance to see some of this year's state champions in action.

The weatherman is promising nice weather today and tomorrow—Circleville's track facilities are among the finest in the state—and the action will be first class.

Things will get underway 3 p.m. today with some finals in the field events and preliminaries in the running events.

Action will resume 11 a.m. Saturday with finals in the field events and semi finals in some running events.

The finals in the running events will start at 1:30 p.m. with the first six in each event advancing to District action.

Circleville athletic director Larry Cook will be the meet manager so you can bet your bottom dollar that these events will start on time and you won't be sitting around waiting for something to happen.

This guy is so "organized" that the Hammond people call him before they put a new instrument on the market. He is also a con man of the first water when it comes to getting free hot dogs or fish sandwiches from a kind and generous sports editor.

Class A team who will be in the meet are: Amanda-Clearcreek, Liberty Union, Canal Winchester, Columbus Academy, Lancaster Fisher Catholic, Millersport, Berne Union, Licking Heights, West Jefferson, New Albany and Newark Catholic.

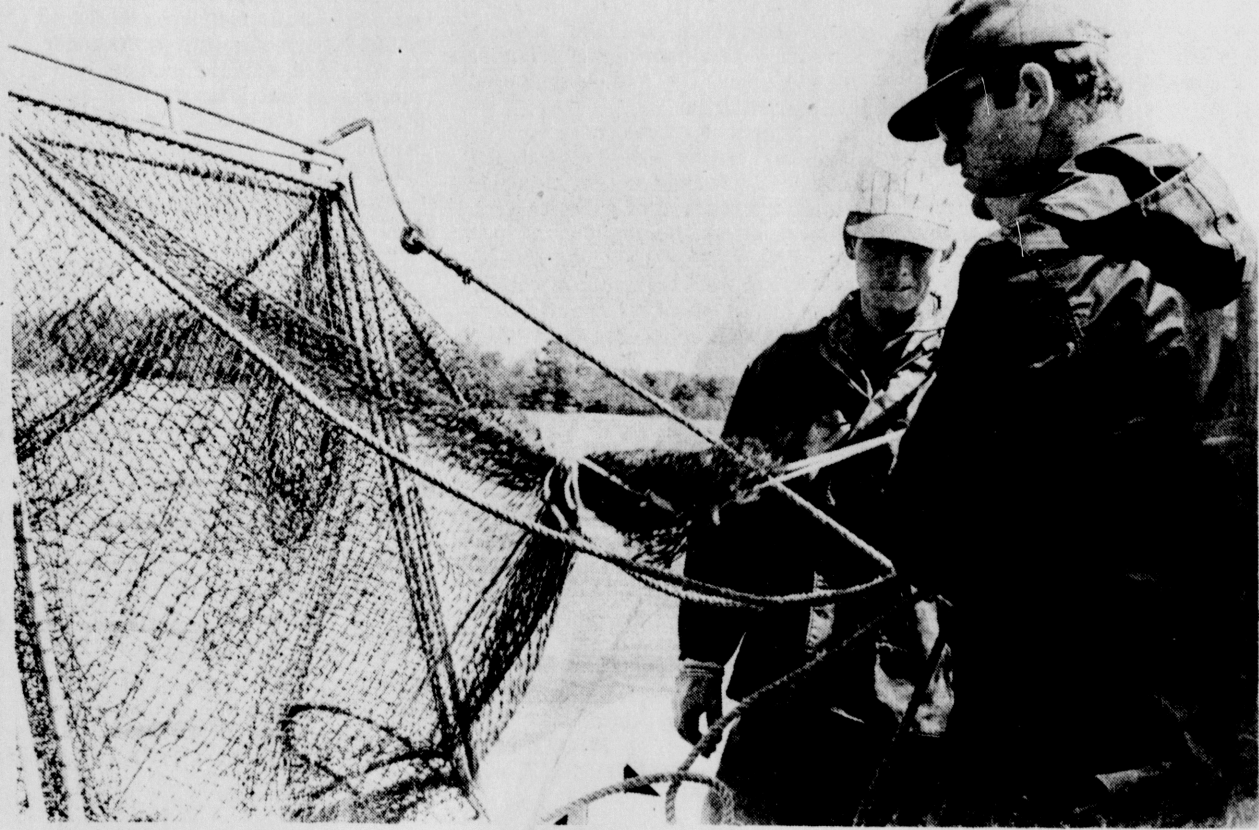

Making the scene for the Class AA schools will be: Teays Valley, Bloom Carroll, Circleville, Logan Elm, Bexley, Bishop Hartley, Bishop Ready, Briggs Hamilton Twp., Independence, Mohawk, St. Charles, Wehrle, Fairfield Union, London, Madison Plains, Watkins Memorial, Pickerington, Westfall and Lakewood.

Its a great array of talent — The Circleville Athletic Boosters will have their refreshment booth open with food and drink — And there is a nice seat waiting for one and all in the bleachers—So let's all turn out and make it a great day all around.

Our "Fearless" forecast—Texans love Texas and Ben Crenshaw will prove it in the Colonial National Invitational.

Until next time, have a nice day-be a good sport.

Hargus Has Quality Fish

NET TRAPS — ODNR workers Chip Gross and Dan Winters prepare to lower their fish net trap into Hargus Lake to conduct a population survey of fish. The survey turned up some quality fish, rather than a large quantity.

By DAVE AMEY
Herald City Editor

Anglers who wet their lines in Hargus Lake will find quality rather than quantity fish, according to Ron Schaefer of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, Division of Wildlife's District One Fish Management Section.

Net catches for a 20-year period averaged 3.51 fish per hour, he said, and fish caught by anglers were generally of desirable size.

To substantiate his claim, ODNR workers captured five muskellunge including one that measured 40 inches in length and tipped the scales at 20 pounds, and an 18½-inch largemouth bass in an all-night net.

The netting is part of ODNR's Adult Fish Population Survey, one of five surveys conducted yearly at the lake to determine the extent of required stocking.

The workers, led by crew chief Dan Winters and made up of Chip Gross and Wayne Shaw, laid two test nets in the lake Monday and returned Tuesday and Wednesday to make their findings.

One net was laid off the point to the north of the dam and the other was laid in an inlet north of the beach area.

Tuesday's catch netted the five muskies between 29 and 40 inches in length, about 60 bluegill between 3½ and 6½ inches, a 14-inch channel catfish, about 60 black and white crappies between six and eight inches, and about 120 bullhead catfish from 7½ to 13½ inches.

As a result of the survey, workers expect to continue stocking yearling largemouth bass at 10 per cent and fingerling muskellunge at two per acre.

Continued surveys will also be conducted.

Hargus Lake, located in the A.W. Marion State Park, consists of about 146 surface acres. Impounding Hargus Creek, a part of the Scioto River Watershed, the dam was originally constructed during 1947-48, but due to hydraulic problems requiring dam repairs, reconstruction and improvements to the spillway and gate valve, its waters were not fully impounded until May of 1957.

The lake is owned and operated by the Division of Parks and Recreation. Fishing, hiking, picnicing, boating, sightseeing, and limited upland game and waterfowl hunting are associated recreational uses of Hargus Lake.

Annual attendance at the state park is about 400,000 persons.

Principal fishes of the lake include black and white crappies, bluegills, bullheads, largemouth bass, muskellunge, rainbow trout, and channel catfish. Rough and forage species include gizzard shad, common white suckers, golden shiners, carp, and redear sunfish.

The rainbow trout were not stocked as part of the two-story fishery, but were requested for locally sponsored fish derbies.

Management practices at the lake have included the construction of fish attractors, population and limnological surveys, and stocking efforts.

Stumps and brushpiles were left on the lake bottom during initial construction, and numerous fallen trees were added in 1966-1967 to increase success for shore fishermen.

The lake has been stocked annually since 1956, with the exception of 1962.

Species other than those prevalent are golden trout, redear sunfish, walleye, bluntnose minnows, and tadpoles.

Catches of panfish and shad continue to dominate much of the fishing in the lake, according to Schaefer. Previous stocking of yearling largemouth bass have apparently had little effect on the panfish population, he said.

Mariners Stun Yankees, 5-2

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

It was difficult to tell which was the expansion team as the Seattle Mariners recorded their first-ever series sweep Thursday night ... over the New York Yankees, no less.

"We just played bad and they played well," Yankees Manager Billy Martin explained after his defending American League champions fumbled their way through an 8-6 defeat at the hands of the 35-game-old Mariners on the heels of a 5-2 setback Wednesday night.

In the only other AL games, the Texas Rangers blanked the Kansas City Royals 2-0, the California Angels overtook the Baltimore Orioles 7-5 and the Detroit Tigers swamped the Milwaukee Brewers 9-1.

The Yankees committed five errors — five more than the Mariners — including three on consecutive ground balls in the third inning, and handed Seattle six unearned runs while the expansionists ran the bases daringly, stealing three bases.

In the first inning, Seattle's Dan Meyer and Bill Stein hit consecutive balls off Catfish Hunter into the stands. The hits were called home runs and, coming in the wake of a two-out error by third baseman Graig Nettles, gave the Mariners a 3-1 lead.

A throwing error by catcher Thurman Munson helped set up a Seattle run in the second. In the third Ron Guidry relieved Hunter with one out, runners on first and second and the Mariners ahead 5-2.

Guidry could only watch helplessly as first baseman Chris Chambliss, Teays Valley hosted Franklin Heights Thursday and dropped a 10-6 decision to the visiting Falcons.

Franklin Heights tallied three runs in each of the first three innings and added a final marker in the top of the fourth while the Vikings scored one in the first, added two in the second and erupted for three more in the bottom of the sixth inning.

Eric Graves and Dean Gloyd shared mound duties for the Blue and Gold and gave up a total of 11 hits, six walks and fanned seven.

Spears and Ruggles were on the hill for the Falcons as they gave up a total of nine hits, five walks and struck out five.

second baseman Willie Randolph and Chambliss again took turns miffing three straight ground balls which easily could have gotten the Yankees out of the inning but resulted instead in three more Seattle runs.

Rangers 2, Royals 0

Gaylord Perry ended a personal four-game losing streak with a four-hitter. The two teams, who fought a 20-minute brawl Saturday night at Texas, showed no inclination to renewed violence. The Rangers nicked Dennis Leonard for a run in the first inning on singles by Bert Campaneris, Willie Horton and Dave May. Jim Sundberg led off the fourth with an infield hit, took second on a wild pitch and scored on Claudell Washington's double.

Angels 7, Orioles 5

Bobby Grich's two-run single capped a five-run eighth-inning rally. Jim Palmer took a 5-2 lead into the eighth but walked Dan Briggs, the first batter. After Gil Flores singled and was forced at second, consecutive singles by Dave Chalk and Joe Rudi made the score 5-4 and chased Palmer.

Bobby Bonds, who had a solo home run, another single and scored three times, greeted Fred Holdsworth with a gametying single and the runners moved up on an error by centerfielder Larry Harlow. Grich then delivered his two-run single.

Tigers 9, Brewers 1

Solo homers by Ron LeFlore and Steve Kemp backed unbeaten rookie Dave Rozema's five-hit pitching. LeFlore, Jason Thompson and Mark Wagner knocked in two runs apiece. The victory was especially sweet for Rozema, 3-0, who beat the Brewers with a sevenhitter last Saturday, then heard Milwaukee Manager Alex Grammas say, "He's got about as little a fast ball as there is in the league."

No Fidrych Start Before May 27

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Mark "The Bird" Fidrych, still recovering from a knee operation, won't make his first start of the season until at least May 27, Detroit Tigers manager Ralph Houk announced Thursday.

Houk still has not set the exact date for Fidrych's belated pitching debut this season. But contrary to earlier speculation the Bird won't pitch against the California Angels on May 24 or May 25. Houk says the earliest Fidrych would pitch would be May 27 when Seattle comes to Detroit. There will be games on May 28 and 29 also.

Fidrych will do some pitching in the exhibition game in Cincinnati next Thursday, but Houk said he wants his star to be ready to pitch a complete game.

FCC Cracks Down On Frequency Use

ROTARY SPEAKER — Blair Bowers Jr., left, was introduced to the Circleville Rotary Club as the guest speaker at Thursday's meeting. Bowers is associated with World Wide Travel Service in Chillicothe, and has conducted tours around the world eight times, in addition to every other foreign country during that period of time. He gave a slide presentation of a trip to Italy.

Laid-Off Policeman To Receive Honor

CINCINNATI (AP) — Thomas Sprague, who saved two children from a burning building last November, will be honored as a police hero next week, months after he was fired in an economic cutback.

"I guess I could say, 'thanks for the honor, but I'd rather have my job back,' but I don't really feel that way," said the 26-year-old Sprague.

He said he was not bitter about losing the job he held for 2½ years which was eliminated with hundreds of others when the money-troubled city made a general cutback.

"I appreciate the award. It has meaning to me. But I really don't think I would ever go back," Sprague said.

He has worked as a plumber's helper and in a plumbing supply store. Last week he began a training program to be a chemical operator with Cincinnati Milacron Inc.

"To tell the truth, I don't know much about what the job involves but it's a challenge and there's a chance for advancement," he said.

Sprague was certainly challenged the morning of Nov. 2, 1976. He spotted a fire in a four-story building and witnesses told him two young girls were trapped on the fourth floor.

Sprague and other officers made two unsuccessful attempts to enter the building but were driven back by heat and smoke.

Finally, he climbed a fire escape on the neighboring building which crossed over to the burning structure. Sprague found the children asleep in a bedroom and handed them to another officer on the fire escape.

"I didn't think about it much at the time. I was just part of the job," he said. "I didn't even know I'd been picked for the award until a woman called from the Chamber of Commerce and asked me to come down and get my picture taken."

Despite the loss of a career, Sprague said he is not bitter toward the city. Laying off city employees was an unpleasant part of somebody else's job just like entering a burning building was part of his, he said.

"It's a good police department," he said. "I really feel it's one of the finest. Without enough money, what else could they do?"

WASHINGTON (AP) — Citizens Band radio operators using unauthorized frequencies are more likely to find themselves in court than CBers breaking other Federal Communications Commission regulations.

Most CBers caught breaking the FCC's five other "trigger violations," which determine policing priorities, pay fines of up to $500 levied by the FCC itself.

"But these (unauthorized frequency users) are the ones we like to take to the U.S. attorney" for criminal prosecution, says Deputy Chief James C. McKinney of the Field Operations Bureau, the FCC's enforcement arm.

McKinney says the charges usually involve violations of the Federal Communications Act for unlicensed use of the frequency involved. Conviction normally brings $1,000 fines, one-year suspended sentences and often confiscation of radio equipment

Cub Training Session Set

A Cub Scout Leader Training Session will be held Saturday at the Circleville Elks Home from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Training will be offered for all adult Cub Scout leaders including Cubmasters, den leaders, committee chairmen, committee members, Webelos leaders, and all assistants.

A new training program will be used so both new and experienced leaders should benefit from the course. There is no cost for the course and it is open to any adult interested in Cub Scouting. Scouting literature and manuals will be available for sale at the session.

costing several thousand dollars.

"Operating on unauthorized frequencies poses a particular problem because of the interference not only to CBers but to people in the other (radio) services authorized to use those frequencies," he says.

Business and industry and the U.S. government use the frequencies most frequented by unauthorized CBers — frequencies ranging above 27.405 megahertz, or CB Channel 40, to 28 megahertz where the 10-meter amateur radio (Ham) band begins.

"Using those frequencies not only could interfere with legitimate business users, but could interfere with critical government communications," McKinney says.

Although HFing — illegally using the higher frequencies — is "generally widespread over the country," he continues, "you won't find more than a handful of people doing it in any given community."

But those that do can cause problems far from their home stations

because of the lack of other radio traffic to block their signals, and the illegal high-powered equipment most use.

It's a desire to transmit long distances, like Ham radio operators are permitted to do, that usually prompts a CBER to move "upstairs," or to the higher frequencies, McKinney contends.

"I just don't buy the argument that they are interested in getting away from congestion," he says, particularly with the 17 new channels available for CB use since January. "I defy you to find all of the new channels in use anywhere at any time."

For whatever reason, the HFers often spend a lot of money for the capability to talk upstairs.

Some modify ordinary CB radios by changing or adding crystals. Others buy additional equipment such as variable frequency oscillators. And still others have equipment used legally by Hams to operate both on CB and amateur radio frequencies.

In most cases, McKinney says, the HFer uses other illegal equipment such as linear amplifiers to boost his signal strength and permit him to talk well over the 150-mile CB limit, often from coast-to-coast and occasionally to other countries.

Guidance Guidelines

Kent State has a summer institute for high school students June 18 to July 1. The institute is designed for qualified students who are concluding their junior year and will be seniors next year (limited spaces for some graduating seniors). The intensive two-week program offers students a chance to earn three hours of college credit in one of these areas: the sciences, the world of business, and the humanities. Students selected will receive a $150 scholarship to cover one-half the institute cost. Deadline to file application is May 23. If interested, check in the guidance office.

Students interested in engineering are invited to an Open House at Columbus Technical Institute Tuesday or Wednesday, May 17-18. If interested, check in the guidance office.

The Guidance Department participated in a study conducted by the Educational Testing Service of Princeton, New Jersey, to acquire data for standards for new forms of the General Educational Development Tests (GED). This week 30 students, mostly seniors, were administered the tests during a two-day testing session of four-six hours. The GED tests are utilized by the State Department of Education to provide adults who did not graduate from high school a chance to obtain a statement of equivalence of a high school diploma. Data from scores of Circleville students, together with others nationwide, will be used to determine standards for adults who will take these tests.

Electricians OK $14.10 Per Hour

CINCINNATI (AP) — Union electricians in the Cincinnati Building Trades Council have accepted a three-year agreement with contractors that would give them a base pay of $14.10 an hour in 1980.

The $2.80 increase will be parceled out in 6-month increments starting May 30, according to Bernard Jansen, business manager of Electrical Workers Local 212 which claims about 1,000 members.

"We decided on a three-year contract because we thought it might help stabilize the industry," Jansen said.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth Sign.

FOR SATURDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Avoid skepticism, doubt, pessimism. On the other hand, don't fall for any suggestions which common sense tells you have but dubious value.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Astute judgment needed; also self-restraint under pressure. Be tactful in speech, cautious in finalizing agreements. Some tricky spots indicated.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Mercury fairly favorable, but be careful not to overstep sensible bounds. There's temptation now to exaggerate, underestimate, go to extremes generally.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Precision and perception needed now. Curb a tendency to wander from a prescribed course. Aim to see both sides of controversial issues.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Difficult situations? Analyze, then attack - with self-confidence and optimism. You can utilize your connections profitably in the p.m.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Some friction evident. Be your practical self and problems will not magnify. They can always be simplified if you put your mind to it.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): A day for listening! Give careful thought to all that is said in conversations, discussions. You could learn much to your advantage.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Some restraint needed. Just because another's idea sounds "intriguing" does not mean it is best for YOU. Think!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Some unexpected moves will call for alertness in all areas. Don't be overly suspicious where it's not warranted, however.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): You will be judged more by actions than by words. But be sure that BOTH register to your benefit. Discuss "sticky" problems with knowing heads.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Curb tendencies toward extravagance, pacing yourself too hectically. Tendencies toward extremism abound.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Don't insist on your own way if others disagree, except where right must prevail. Enjoy friends whose interests revive your spirits.

YOU BORN TODAY are an exceedingly sympathetic individual; have an empathy to others and instinctively understand their wants and needs. Because of this, you would do extremely well in the fields of medicine, nursing, psychology or sociology. Highly idealistic and imaginative, you would also make an outstanding artist (in almost any field) but could especially excel in painting, sculpture, music or writing. Your love of beauty extends to the outdoors, and you would make an excellent gardener, landscape artist or botanist. Try to curb tendencies toward doubt and anxiety over your efforts. When Taurean is at his best, no one can surpass him. Birthdate of: G. D. Fahrenheit, physicist; Hall (Thomas Henry) Caine, novelist, poet.

NEW HARMONY, Ind. (AP) — While restoring an 1876 building in this historic town, artisans have recently uncovered a sign for the "Centennial Saloon" of New Harmony. The advertisement for the saloon, painted directly on the side of the building, is now being treated with preservatives, so that the building — one of the prominent restorations in New Harmony's historic district — may again wear its original sign. Instead of a saloon, however, the building itself will now house 19th-century antiques on view and for sale to visitors.

FCC Cracks Down On Frequency Use

WASHINGTON (AP) — Citizens Band radio operators using unauthorized frequencies are more likely to find themselves in court than CBers breaking other Federal Communications Commission regulations.

Most CBers caught breaking the FCC's five other "trigger violations," which determine policing priorities, pay fines of up to $500 levied by the FCC itself.

"But these (unauthorized frequency users) are the ones we like to take to the U.S. attorney" for criminal prosecution, says Deputy Chief James C. McKinney of the Field Operations Bureau, the FCC's enforcement arm.

McKinney says the charges usually involve violations of the Federal Communications Act for unlicensed use of the frequency involved. Conviction normally brings $1,000 fines, one-year suspended sentences and often confiscation of radio equipment costing several thousand dollars.

"Operating on unauthorized frequencies poses a particular problem because of the interference not only to CBers but to people in the other (radio) services authorized to use those frequencies," he says.

Business and industry and the U.S. government use the frequencies most frequented by unauthorized CBers — frequencies ranging above 27.405 megahertz, or CB Channel 40, to 28 megahertz where the 10-meter amateur radio (Ham) band begins.

"Using those frequencies not only could interfere with legitimate business users, but could interfere with critical government communications," McKinney says.

Although HFing — illegally using the higher frequencies — is "generally widespread over the country," he continues, "you won't find more than a handful of people doing it in any given community."

But those that do can cause problems far from their home stations

because of the lack of other radio traffic to block their signals, and the illegal high-powered equipment most use.

It's a desire to transmit long distances, like Ham radio operators are permitted to do, that usually prompts a CBER to move "upstairs," or to the higher frequencies, McKinney contends.

"I just don't buy the argument that they are interested in getting away from congestion," he says, particularly with the 17 new channels available for CB use since January. "I defy you to find all of the new channels in use anywhere at any time."

For whatever reason, the HFers often spend a lot of money for the capability to talk upstairs.

Some modify ordinary CB radios by changing or adding crystals. Others buy additional equipment such as variable frequency oscillators. And still others have equipment used legally by Hams to operate both on CB and amateur radio frequencies.

In most cases, McKinney says, the HFer uses other illegal equipment such as linear amplifiers to boost his signal strength and permit him to talk well over the 150-mile CB limit, often from coast-to-coast and occasionally to other countries.

Laid-Off Policeman To Receive Honor

CINCINNATI (AP) — Thomas Sprague, who saved two children from a burning building last November, will be honored as a police hero next week, months after he was fired in an economic cutback.

"I guess I could say, 'thanks for the honor, but I'd rather have my job back,' but I don't really feel that way," said the 26-year-old Sprague.

He said he was not bitter about losing the job he held for 2½ years which was eliminated with hundreds of others when the money-troubled city made a general cutback.

"I appreciate the award. It has meaning to me. But I really don't think I would ever go back," Sprague said.

He has worked as a plumber's helper and in a plumbing supply store. Last week he began a training program to be a chemical operator with Circinnati Milaon Inc.

"To tell the truth, I don't know much about what the job involves but it's a challenge and there's a chance for advancement," he said.

Sprague was certainly challenged the morning of Nov. 2, 1976. He spotted a fire in a four-story building and witnesses told him two young girls were trapped on the fourth floor.

Sprague and other officers made two unsuccessful attempts to enter the building but were driven back by heat and smoke.

Finally, he climbed a fire escape on the neighboring building which crossed over to the burning structure. Sprague found the children asleep in a bedroom and handed them to another officer on the fire escape.

"I didn't think about it much at the time. I was just part of the job," he said. "I didn't even know I'd been picked for the award until a woman called from the Chamber of Commerce and asked me to come down and get my picture taken."

Despite the loss of a career, Sprague

Cub Training Session Set

A Cub Scout Leader Training Session will be held Saturday at the Circleville Elks Home from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Training will be offered for all adult Cub Scout leaders including Cubmasters, den leaders, committee chairmen, committee members, Webelos leaders, and all assistants.

A new training program will be used so both new and experienced leaders should benefit from the course. There is no cost for the course and it is open to any adult interested in Cub Scouting. Scouting literature and manuals will be available for sale at the session.

A make up session for all den leaders who cannot make Saturday's session will be held Monday at the home of Vally Rahe, 343 Meadow Lane.

For further information call Jim Hill at 474-1205 or Pat Higgins at 477-1866.

said he is not bitter toward the city. Laying off city employees was an unpleasant part of somebody else's job just like entering a burning building was part of his, he said.

"It's a good police department," he said. "I really feel it's one of the finest. Without enough money, what else could they do?"

GALLOPING GRANNIES — May Watson, 52, left, and Jean Jaconello, 44, take a hedge in their stride as they lead a field of con-

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth sign.

FOR SATURDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Avoid skepticism, doubt, pessimism. On the other hand, don't fall for any suggestions which common sense tells you have but dubious value.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Astute judgment needed; also self-restraint under pressure. Be tactful in speech, cautious in finalizing agreements. Some tricky spots indicated.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Mercury fairly favorable, but be careful not to overstep sensible bounds. There's temptation now to exaggerate, underestimate, go to extremes generally.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Precision and perception needed now. Curb a tendency to wander from a prescribed course. Aim to see both sides of controversial issues.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Difficult situations? Analyze, then attack - with self-confidence and optimism. You can utilize your connections profitably in the p.m.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Some friction evident. Be your practical self and problems will not magnify. They can always be simplified if you put your mind to it.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): A day for listening! Give careful thought to all that is said in conversations, discussions. You could learn much to your advantage.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Some restraint needed. Just because another's idea sounds "intriguing" does not mean it is best for YOU. Think!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Some unexpected moves will call for alertness in all areas. Don't be overly suspicious where it's not warranted, however.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): You will be judged more by actions than by words. But be sure that BOTH register to your benefit. Discuss "sticky" problems with knowing heads.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Curb tendencies toward extravagance, pacing yourself too hectically. Tendencies toward extremism abound.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Don't insist on your own way if others disagree, except where right must prevail. Enjoy friends whose interests revive your spirits.

YOU BORN TODAY are an exceedingly sympathetic individual; have an empathy to others and instinctively understand their wants and needs. Because of this, you would do extremely well in the fields of medicine, nursing, psychology or sociology. Highly idealistic and imaginative, you would also make an outstanding artist (in almost any field) but could especially excel in painting, sculpture, music or writing. Your love of beauty extends to the outdoors, and you would make an excellent gardener, landscape artist or botanist. Try to curb tendencies toward doubt and anxiety over your efforts. When Taurean is at his best, no one can surpass him. Birthdate of: G. D. Fahrenheit, physicist; Hall (Thomas Henry) Caine, novelist, poet.

Sign Of Times
NEW HARMONY, Ind. (AP) — While restoring an 1876 building in this historic town, artisans have recently uncovered a sign for the "Centennial Saloon" of New Harmony. The advertisement for the saloon, painted directly on the side of the building, is now being treated with preservatives, so that the building — one of the prominent restorations in New Harmony's historic district — may again wear its original sign. Instead of a saloon, however, the building itself will now house 19th-century antiques on view and for sale to visitors.

Music Gains In TV Importance

NEW YORK (AP) — What a scene — that captivating music, and Larry Levinson extrabusy, pretending to mop the grime from the underside of a jumbo jet.

Sure, the TV film you don't see is important, but Levinson and partner Neil Warner are experts at making a point without it.

"Television is thought of as a visual medium," said Levinson, "and it's really not just that. It's just half visual.

"Emotionally, hearing is a wild sense," he went on, excited about the subject. "The ears really are there, really are important, and the idea of TV as a visual medium is something we want to get past."

Warner and Levinson put music to TV commercials, those compositions in 60 seconds or less that advertisers like to make a message easy on the ears. Except Neil Warner and Larry Levinson don't look at their work quite that way — to them, what you hear can be as important as what you see.

What's more, said Levinson, "People don't realize that music in commercials is good, serious work."

Music is Neil Warner's thing. "I had a thorough classical background and a lot of experience in the popular field," he said, "and the rest of it comes from a lot of listening. I'm a voracious listener." Besides that, he's blessed with perfect pitch.

"What we do is very mathematical," said Levinson, 43. He's Warner-Levinson Productions' expert on film.

Mathematical means taking the advertiser's message, said the bearded Warner, and "constructing your music where the cues come in."

Maybe eight or 10 outfits like Warner-Levinson handle most of the ad music business, and Neil Warner and Larry Levinson like to think they've a talent for avoiding an identifiable style.

"I think one reason we're successful is we can do so many different styles of work," said Warner, who's 47.

Commercials more often than not cry out for a fresh sound, said Levinson, and "it's because of that need that we developed the versatility we have."

So Warner and Levinson, or theri two co-workers, get the soundless film, find out just what the advertiser wants to say — and how — and they go to work.

In Memoriam

In honor of Ralph (Bud) Weete on this his birthday. We miss you, honey.
Faye and Bruce

In memory of Diane Leist, who passed away May 13, 1977. She bid no one a last farewell. She said goodbye to none. The heavenly gates just opened wide.
And a loving voice said "Come."

Although her soul is now at rest, And free from care and pain, The world would seem like Heaven.
If we had her back again.

On Books And Activities At The Library

The calendar says Spring but the temperature doesn't! The weather may be changeable, but you can always count on the Pickaway County District Public Library having some good reading material available.

Lucky Lindy made news fifty years ago this month as he made his solo flight across the Atlantic. "Lindbergh Alone" by Brendan Gill is not a biography but rather an observation of an unknown young man at a moment in history and the forces that led him to act as he did. It's well illustrated with photos.

For buffs of the history of battles, "Land Battles" by Alastair Revie is a pictorial history of conflicts on land. It's a guide to why they were fought, how they were fought, and the men who fought them.

Radio amateurs will find the 1977 edition of "The Radio Amateur's Handbook" on the shelf this week. This is the standard manual of amateur radio communication.

Lyn Hancock's account of adventure in the Pacific Northwest will persuade many readers to experience it all for themselves. "There's A Raccoon In My Parka" is filled with nature and conservation lore, history and humor.

Some well-known writers appear among this week's fiction. Dorothy Eden's new novel is her most panoramic and captivating to date. "The Salamanca Drum" sweeps from the Boer War to World War II as Matilda Duncastle's obsessive militarism drives her to push her children into every military action England takes on.

"Recoil" by Brian Garfield is a powerful novel that pits an ordinary man against a powerful Mafia boss. The extraordinary challenge triggers explosive excitement in this novel of pursuit and intrigue.

Brian Cleeve follows the fortunes of Kate Herriott, a beautiful young actress, through the rough and tumble world of the London variety theater during the Napoleonic Wars. "Kate" is filled with the exciting drama of a typical Cleeve novel.

A new romantic suspense novel set in the England of 1847, "Ride The Blue Riband" by Rosalind Laker has the fascinating background of the caring, training, and racing of horses at a glamorous track.

"Coil Of Serpents" by Anne Stevenson guides the reader to the terrifying inner sanctum of an ancient fortress. Emma Field is thrust into the age-old mysteries dwelling within the walls of an Italian medieval country home.

Mystery fans can choose from three new Crime Club titles. "Armstrong" by Alec Whitney sends a detective in search of a nameless victim and an unknown assassin.

Mushrooms and murder make "Death Cap" by June Thomson a classic British mystery replete with footpaths, vicarages, and salty little old ladies.

"Act Of Fear" by Willo D. Roberts is a chilling novel of psychological suspense.

Next time you're at the corner of Pickaway and Main, stop in and see what a great library your community has!

Harry Rumbaugh, manager of the G. C. Murphy Co. store at 1170 N. Court St., announced the 37th annual reunion of veteran employees of the company will be held Monday at the William Penn Hotel in Pittsburgh, Pa. Employees with 15, 25, 35, 40 or 45 years of service are eligible to attend.

Art Students Planning Show At Westfall

Westfall High School will hold an Art Show 2 p.m. May 16. The student's exhibits are under the direction of art teacher Mrs. Joni Meade.

Following the showing, the band, under the direction of Mark Hosler, will perform in concert. It will start 3 p.m. at the high school.

Local Murphy Store employees with more than 15 years service who do not attend the reunion will receive a share of G. C. Murphy common stock. They are: Harry Rumbaugh, Martha Davis, Julia Canter, Margaret Van Gundy, Doris Sparks, Nancy Fee, Doris Young, Phyllis Dreisbach.

The G. C. Murphy Company Veterans' Club, which was organized in 1940, now has 4,799 members representing 134,000 years' service.

The 249 employees who will join the club this year represent 3,735 years' service. Each will receive an attractive 15 year pin, a certificate of membership and will advance to the four-week vacation plan.

Murphy veterans attaining 25 years' service receive, on the date of their 25th Anniversary, an engraved wrist watch, as recognition for company service. They advance to a five-week vacation plan. Employees completing 35 years' service receive special recognition at the reunion.

The business meeting will be conducted by club president Jack J. Franklin, after which new members will be received, with luncheon and an afternoon boat ride on the Gateway Clipper.

Highlights of the evening banquet will be remarks to club members by Murphy President William T. Withers and Chairman S. Warne Robinson.

Murphy Co. To Honor Veteran Employees

Harry Rumbaugh, manager of the G. C. Murphy Co. store at 1170 N. Court St., announced the 37th annual reunion of veteran employees of the company will be held Monday at the William Penn Hotel in Pittsburgh, Pa. Employees with 15, 25, 35, 40 or 45 years of service are eligible to attend.

Local Murphy Store employees with more than 15 years service who do not attend the reunion will receive a share of G. C. Murphy common stock. They are: Harry Rumbaugh, Martha Davis, Julia Canter, Margaret Van Gundy, Doris Sparks, Nancy Fee, Doris Young, Phyllis Dreisbach.

The G. C. Murphy Company Veterans' Club, which was organized in 1940, now has 4,799 members representing 134,000 years' service.

The 249 employees who will join the club this year represent 3,735 years' service. Each will receive an attractive 15 year pin, a certificate of membership and will advance to the four-week vacation plan.

Murphy veterans attaining 25 years' service receive, on the date of their 25th Anniversary, an engraved wrist watch, as recognition for company service. They advance to a five-week vacation plan. Employees completing 35 years' service receive special recognition at the reunion.

The business meeting will be conducted by club president Jack J. Franklin, after which new members will be received, with luncheon and an afternoon boat ride on the Gateway Clipper.

On Books And Activities At The Library

The calendar says Spring but the temperature doesn't! The weather may be changeable, but you can always count on the Pickaway County District Public Library having some good reading material available.

Lucky Lindy made news fifty years ago this month as he made his solo flight across the Atlantic. "Lindbergh Alone" by Brendan Gill is not a biography but rather an observation of an unknown young man at a moment in history and the forces that led him to act as he did. It's well illustrated with photos.

For buffs of the history of battles, "Land Battles" by Alastair Revie is a pictorial history of conflicts on land. It's a guide to why they were fought, how they were fought, and the men who fought them.

Radio amateurs will find the 1977 edition of "The Radio Amateur's Handbook" on the shelf this week. This is the standard manual of amateur radio communication.

Lyn Hancock's account of adventure in the Pacific Northwest will persuade many readers to experience it all for themselves. "There's A Raccoon In My Parka" is filled with nature and conservation lore, history and humor.

Some well-known writers appear among this week's fiction. Dorothy Eden's new novel is her most panoramic and captivating to date. "The Salamanca Drum" sweeps from the Boer War to World War II as Matilda Duncastle's obsessive militarism drives her to push her children into every military action England takes on.

"Recoil" by Brian Garfield is a powerful novel that pits an ordinary man against a powerful Mafia boss. The extraordinary challenge triggers explosive excitement in this novel of pursuit and intrigue.

Brian Cleeve follows the fortunes of Kate Herriott, a beautiful young actress, through the rough and tumble world of the London variety theater during the Napoleonic Wars. "Kate" is filled with the exciting drama of a typical Cleeve novel.

A new romantic suspense novel set in the England of 1847, "Ride The Blue Riband" by Rosalind Laker has the fascinating background of the carling, training, and racing of horses at a glamorous track.

"Coil Of Serpents" by Anne Stevenson guides the reader to the terrifying inner sanctum of an ancient fortress. Emma Field is thrust into the age-old mysteries dwelling within the walls of an Italian medieval country home.

Mystery fans can choose from three new Crime Club titles. "Armstrong" by Alec Whitney sends a detective in search of a nameless victim and an unknown assassin.

Mushrooms and murder make "Death Cap" by June Thomson a classic British mystery replete with footpaths, vicarages, and salty little old ladies.

"Act Of Fear" by Willo D. Roberts is a chilling novel of psychological suspense.

Next time you're at the corner of Pickaway and Main, stop in and see what a great library your community has!
